

GEORGIAN OUT WEST PREACHED AND PLIED 'SHOVING THE QUEER'

Caught With the Goods in Colorado, W. L. Tipton, Formerly of Fannin County, Confesses to Counterfeiting SLEUTH ONCE CHASED

HIM FROM THIS STATE

J. M. Wright Trained Man Across Continent, and Caught Him, but Ga. Jury Held He Was Not Guilty

Arrested on a counterfeiting charge in Georgia eleven years ago, escaped to Colorado, brought back and freed by jury trial six years ago, W. L. Tipton, formerly of Fannin county, Georgia, has confessed to his crime and, caught red-handed, will be tried on a new charge of counterfeiting near Greeley, Col.

News of his confession has been received at the United States secret service offices here by J. M. Wright, the same sleuth who tracked Tipton in the Fannin hills in 1903 and had him arrested.

Wright searched his premises at that time and found counterfeiting moulds. Before he got his man, Tipton fled to Colorado, where he is said to have taken up the public profession of preaching and truck farming, and the private one of poker playing and manufacturing fake half dollars.

Wright trailed his man across the continent and in 1908, following Tipton's indictment in Atlanta on the counterfeiting charge he was arrested in Greeley and brought back to Georgia. The jury that tried him turned in a "not guilty" verdict and Tipton went back to Colorado.

REVIVES OLD MEMORIES.

Agent Wright had almost forgotten the old case, until it came back to him a vivid reminder Tuesday morning, in the form of a newspaper clipping from the Greeley Republican of March 2, telling of Tipton's arrest and confession.

According to the clipping, Secret Service Agent Rowland K. Goddard raided Tipton's little cabin near Greeley and surprised the counterfeiter as he was drying a plaster of paris mould which Goddard drew from the kitchen stove. A search of the cabin revealed two Bibles and a number of manuscript sermons that Tipton was wont to deliver in his itinerant rambles; an excellent collection of pocket chips connected with the religious tracts, and some stolen steel traps beneath a lot of old beer bottles.

An examination of Greeley's mould and his counterfeiting stamps, the clipping revealed, the fact that he was an expert at the work. Secret service men say he is one of the best in the country.

With Tipton was arrested his son-in-law, "Blackie" Haynes. The latter denies the counterfeiting charge, but Tipton admits all. He will be tried in Colorado.

LEADERS WANT TRUST BILLS TO BE HASTENED

To Work Nights to Complete Draft of Bill to Create Interstate Trade Body

(By Associated Press.)—"Hasten the trust bills," is the unofficial message actuating congressional committees in charge of the administration program. Contending that preliminary consideration of proposed laws to further regulate monopoly has been delayed, administration leaders are urging that committees speed up their work.

The senate commerce subcommittee has decided to work nights to complete the draft of the bill to create an interstate trade commission. House committees also have been urged to get the final program into shape. Chairman Clayton of the judiciary committee, after his conference with President Wilson yesterday on tentative measures to supplement the Sherman law, had a subcommittee working today revising measures to which so many objections have been made in the past that they might limit rather than extend operation of the existing act. It now is planned to have the trade commission bill ready for discussion in the house by April.

LONGER SCHOOL DAYS FOR SUMMER MONTHS

Educational Paper Says Moral and Scholastic Delinquency Would Be Eliminated

(By Associated Press.)—"Longer school days with sessions throughout the summer months are urged in an article in the current number of the School Review, issued today at the University of Chicago.

Moral and scholastic delinquency would be prevented and economic waste in school management would be eliminated under such a plan according to the article.

"City children are becoming more and more helpless as the result of the idleness imposed upon them by city life," says the article. "The boys, at least, are exposed through their long evenings and holidays to the various influences of the street." The article urges the employment of vocational teachers the year round.

In more than a hundred municipalities the local option question is to be voted on at the regular village election April 21 and in these places there was noticeable activity among the women.

ATLANTIAN IS VICTIM IN FIRE THAT BURNED BIG CLUB IN ST. LOUIS

Ed P. Williams, Tech 1900, Brother of James T. Williams, Also of This City, Lost Life as Missouri Athletic Club Burned

Ed P. Williams, a 1900 graduate of the Georgia School of Technology, and a brother of James T. Williams, 322 West Peachtree street, was burned to death in the fire which destroyed the building of the Missouri Athletic club in St. Louis Monday morning.

James T. Williams received a letter from his brother dated March 4, New York, in which he stated that he was leaving for St. Louis on a business trip. He usually stops at the Jefferson hotel there and Mr. Williams did not have an idea that he might be a fire victim until Tuesday morning when he received a telegram from another brother, Church C. Williams, of Chicago, saying that the brother's body had been recovered.

Besides James T. Williams, who is a member of the Williams-Hartsock company, Ed P. Williams has a sister in Atlanta, Miss Mary Williams, a pupil of Miss Woodbury's school. His father resides in north Georgia and there is still another brother in Birmingham.

Ten Bodies Recovered From Fire in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—Ten bodies entered the ruins of the Missouri Athletic club, which was destroyed by fire Sunday night, and recovered three bodies. This brings the total number of bodies recovered to ten. Of these six have been identified. Twenty-two, or possibly twenty-three, bodies still are believed to be in the ruins.

The body in the morgue identified yesterday as that of Allen R. Hancock was identified today as that of L. P. Ruff, department manager for the Simmons Hardware company, St. Louis. One of the bodies taken out today was identified by two employees of the club as that of Marshall Bier, head of Marshall Bier & Co., fur dealers of St. Louis.

Another body was identified as that of William J. Kinser, treasurer of the Kinser Construction company, St. Louis.

UNEMPLOYED ARMY DRIVEN OUT BY FORCE

Leaders in Jail; Men Are in Dire Straits in Camp Guard-ed by Deputies

(By Associated Press.)—"Sacramento, Cal., March 10.—Bastard and badly organized, its leaders in Sacramento jails and driven out by force, the unemployed army, driven from Sacramento, is camped today across the river in Yolo county, a dejected lot of men. Deputies are guarding the bridge and will not permit any to return to the city, while Yolo county officers, heavily armed, are keeping the men within the new camp established yesterday after the "army" was forced beyond the city limits.

With no spokesman and no leaders, the band of 1,000 has put aside temporarily its projected trip to Washington, D. C., and turned its attention to the graver subject of subsistence. The city and county governments have sent enough money to provision two meals. Yolo county, which last Friday paid the army's transportation from Davis to Sacramento, has as yet taken no action to further disperse the men.

Applications will be made, it was stated today, for writs of habeas corpus in behalf of "General" Kelley and "Major" Thorne and other leaders now in jail. The authorities said that if the writs were sustained the men would be rearrested as often as they were released until the possibility of reorganization was passed.

FISHING FLEET TO GET MORE SHIPS

Danes Planning to Ship Dried Fish Direct Here From Iceland

GLOUCESTER, Mass., March 10.—The free fish clause of the new tariff bill has so increased the salt fish business of this port, one of the largest centers of the industry in the world, that the fishing fleet will be enlarged this summer, according to a statement today by Benjamin A. Smith, manager of one of the principal fish companies. Mr. Smith said that the indications were that this port would be the receiving center of the country for fish from New Foundland, Norway and Iceland. Fish receipts from the Danish fleet last fall totalled 1,000,000 pounds, he added, and the Danes are planning to ship dried fish direct from Iceland.

VERNOV'S FRIENDS PLANNING A COUP IN POLICE BOARD

Determine to Keep Him in Chairmanship Race, Figuring Fain's Votes Will Finally Come to Him

DEADLOCK IS LOOKED FOR AS VERY LIKELY

Board May Fail to Elect Tuesday Night and Adjourn to Wednesday Night to Try Again—How Board Lines Up

The race for the chairmanship of the board of police commissioners took a sudden turn Tuesday when friends of W. A. Vernoy, one of the candidates, determined that he shall stay in the race to the finish.

They believe if Mr. Vernoy stays long enough he can finally be elected, as they figure that the votes of W. P. Fain, who will be the leading candidate on the first ballot, but fall short of a majority, will never go to Robert T. Pace, the third candidate, but will, as a last resort, be willing to go to Vernoy.

This decision on the part of Mr. Vernoy's friends was reached at a conference held at noon Tuesday. Previous to that time it was generally believed in city political circles that Mr. Vernoy, going into the election with fewer votes than either Fain or Pace, would conclude after a few ballots that he could not be elected and would then change to one of the other candidates.

Mr. Vernoy himself was figuring on this possibility early Tuesday morning and intimated that in such an event he probably would throw his strength to Pace, which would elect Pace should all the Vernoy votes switch together. The election takes place Tuesday night at police station, where the police board will preside in the election of a chairman.

Enthusiasm broke out in applause at the meeting of the central committee at the Hotel Winifred when this result became known.

The day's biggest report, and the biggest report for any day so far, came from the ladies of the central committee, of which Mrs. R. H. White is chairman. Mrs. White reported $1,091.50, including the first $1,000 subscription to come in. This generous subscriber is Mrs. W. D. Brown, a member of Park Street Methodist church.

The next biggest report of the day came from St. Mark's committee, Mrs. Elizabeth Winship Bates, chairman, $695.

Enthusiasm by their success since Monday noon, the ladies of the campaign returned to their work Tuesday afternoon with renewed determination to complete before the end of this week the $25,000 which they must raise to meet Asa G. Candler's offer of $75,000 additional.

Several of the ladies are concentrating their energies on subscribers who may wish to give enough for memorial rooms in the new hospital. To name a memorial room a $1,000 contribution is necessary. From the revenue of each room, wherein pay patients will be cared for, one charity patient can be supported.

LET'S BE GENEROUS AND FINISH THIS WEEK THAT WESLEY MEMORIAL FUND

There are two phases in the work that Wesley Memorial hospital has been doing. One is charitable, and the other is commercial. What about the charitable? Read this from the latest report of the trustees:

"From the opening of the hospital, August 16, 1905, until November 1, 1913, there were treated 6,150 patients, of whom 3,456 were unable to pay for their treatment. Those able to pay numbered 2,694."

"Over and above all Christmas collections received by the hospital, there has been an average annual expenditure of $5,314.04 for the relief of charity patients."

"The commercial phase? Read this from the trustees: 'The institution is neither local nor sectarian in its ministrations. Patients came last year from 103 counties in Georgia alone, and from other states. Members of fourteen denominations were found among them. The work of the hospital is general in extent and generous in spirit. Its benefits go beyond both sectarian and geographical lines.'"

The report shows 880 patients from Georgia, 20 from Alabama, 19 from South Carolina, 16 from Florida, 7 from Tennessee, 3 from Massachusetts, 2 each from Ohio and Texas, and 1 each from Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan, North Carolina, New York and Virginia.

Anything that tends to make Atlanta a gathering point redounds to the commercial benefit of the city. Surgery has given world-wide fame to Rochester, Minn. Thousands go to Baltimore each year, to be treated in Johns Hopkins or to visit patients there.

Why can't Atlanta make a southern Johns Hopkins of Wesley Memorial hospital? Atlanta can. On one hand is the appeal of charity. On the other is commercial incentive. Inspired by one or the other, Atlanta will found the greater Wesley Memorial hospital.

This week the women's campaign to raise $25,000 is on among us. Asa G. Candler has agreed to give $75,000 if they put $25,000 in bank. That will make $100,000 for the start of a great southern hospital.

We must capitulate Atlanta. The women are determined, and they've got all the argument on their side. Let's give in quickly. Let's be generous about it. Let's help 'em finish the work this week. Who's with us?

LOUISVILLE STORES BURN; UNDERWOOD ASSUMES LOSS AGGREGATES $20,000

LOUISVILLE, Ga., March 10.—Fire of unknown origin broke out this morning in the rear of R. L. Considerable damage was done from water.

The losers were R. P. Ramsey, dry goods and notions, $5,000; C. V. & W. J. Clark, general merchandise, $2,500; J. R. Williams company, grocery and hardware store, $1,000; Reagan & Clark, fancy grocery, $500. The Louisville Drug company and R. L. Bostick suffered a total loss.

STARTLING EVIDENCE REPORTED IN HANDS OF FRANK'S COUNSEL

Another Important State Witness Said to Have Repudiated Testimony Given at the Trial

SILENCE OF ATTORNEYS GIVES COLOR TO REPORT

Other Affidavits Containing Sensational Statements Are Prepared for Use in Motion for New Trial, It Is Said

Attorneys for Leo M. Frank refuse to discuss the report that another witness for the state, equally important, if not more important, to the prosecution's case than Albert McKnight and George Epps, has repudiated his testimony at the trial.

The rumor is persistent that the defense has in its possession several affidavits which have not been made public, but which will be used in the extraordinary motion for a new trial which will be brought before Judge Ben H. Hill, of the criminal division of the superior court, some time before the date set for the execution of Frank.

The report is current that in the unpublished affidavits is sensational testimony as valuable as the recently developed point which tends to show that the murder notes were written in the basement instead of in the office, as Conley contends. The release of the affidavits for Frank has naturally given color to the reports.

Attorney Herbert J. Haas, associated with the Frank defense since the factory superintendent was first arrested, has returned from New York, after an absence of about ten days. It is said that while there he conferred with Nina Formby and with William S. Osborne, the handwriting expert, and with other figures in the case.

BURKE SILENT ON TRIP. C. W. Burke, a special investigator in the employ of the defense, has also returned to the city after a trip to Florida in the interest of the defendant. Burke refuses to state the object or the result of his trip.

To all appearances Frank is greatly encouraged by the recent developments in his case. The defendant is closely following every move in the case, and spends much of his time studying the value and effect of the various new points in the case.

Frank in his tower cell receives many visitors every day, and when callers are not in front of his cell, he is busy studying his case, with his rather voluminous correspondence. Besides representatives from the Atlanta papers, Frank recently has discussed his case freely and at length with representatives of New York and other eastern papers.

Within hailing distance of Frank's cell are the quarters of Jim Conley, his negro accuser, who is still waiting the hearing of his motion for a new trial. The date for the hearing has been set for March 15. In the event the motion is denied an appeal to the supreme court will be taken for the negro, who is a lawyer and has little probability of Conley's commencing service of his twelve months' sentence on the changing for four or five months longer.

JIM CONLEY INTERVIEWED. Monday evening the negro was interviewed by the first newspaper man admitted to his cell since immediately after his trial. The newspaperman, a representative of the New York Times, went to the negro's cell with Conley's attorney, William M. Smith, the interview having been requested for him by Solicitor Dorsey.

Jim recounted his story to the New York man, who is making an exhaustive investigation of the case. During the course of the interview Conley brought out the fact that he was short of funds to the attention of his interviewer. Two crisp dollar bills were handed through the bars to the outstretched fingers of the negro.

"That is more money than Jim has had since he came to the jail nearly a year ago," remarked Attorney Smith. "It shows he is," said the negro.

"Well, Jim, what are you going to do with the money?" asked the interviewer.

"Well, boss," came the smiling reply, "I am going to eat all day tomorrow."

Conley is still said to entertain the idea that he was very badly treated by the courts, when, following his trial, (Continued on page 2, Col. 2.)

Rheumatic Cripple Cured

Mr. Frank H. Rogers, of Momeene, Ill., writes:

"I take pleasure in highly recommending Dr. Jones' Liniment. A year ago I was obliged to use crutches, having been crippled with rheumatism. Doctors failed to help me. Various remedies did no good. I used several bottles of Dr. Jones' Liniment and recovered so fully that I went back to my old job of firing a locomotive. Dr. Jones' Liniment is also excellent for neuralgia."

Here is a man who suffered great pain, and was unable to work, which would discourage most anybody. How many men and women are there, who finding no relief after trying two or three remedies give up in despair, and make life unpleasant for themselves and those around them? Such was not the case with Mr. Rogers. He kept on trying until he finally got the right medicine and was able to resume his work. Dr. Jones' Liniment will do the same for you.

Sold by all druggists.—(Advt.)

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

Take teaspoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each day for the liver to waste which the liver clears away day by day. An over-supply or a change in your habits sometimes causes the liver to neglect a few particles, which remain in the stomach and make it more difficult to clean. So this waste accumulates and clogs the intestinal canal and causes constipation. That is not all. If the waste is not eliminated it ferments and generates uric acid, a poisonous substance which gets into the blood stream and is carried along through the system to poison it. Self-poisoning or autotoxemia, this is termed medically.

When uric acid is deposited in the joints and muscles you have rheumatism when it touches the nerves, neuralgia, paralysis, nervous prostration, and poisonous irritation of the delicate

G. W. VANDERBILT'S ESTATE GOES TO CORNELIUS

Henry C. Frick, Who Resides There, Recently Built $3,000,000 Residence on Site

NEW YORK, March 10.—The death of George W. Vanderbilt in Washington last Friday, without male heirs, causes the Vanderbilt mansion at Fifty-first and Fifth avenues to be willed to Cornelius Vanderbilt, the son of the late William H. Vanderbilt, the sum of $1,000,000 outright and other property to descend to Cornelius Vanderbilt under the will of his grandfather, William H. Vanderbilt, who died in 1887.

William H. Vanderbilt left all his property to his widow during her lifetime; then to his youngest son, George W. Vanderbilt, during his lifetime. It was provided that George W. Vanderbilt should name one of his sons to inherit after him. In case George W. Vanderbilt died without sons it was provided that the property should go to William H. Vanderbilt, grandson of the testator and son of Cornelius Vanderbilt. Further than that, it was provided that if William H. Vanderbilt died before his time to inherit, the property should go to his younger brother, Cornelius.

George W. Vanderbilt died without a son. William H. Vanderbilt, the grandson, died in 1892 when he was a junior at Yale.

In several years since a "male descendant" hearing the name of Vanderbilt lived in the Vanderbilt mansion. Nine years ago Henry C. Frick, who now lives there, obtained a ten-year lease from George W. Vanderbilt. What the intentions of Cornelius Vanderbilt are for the disposition of the residence when the lease expires are not known. Mr. Frick has built a $3,000,000 residence for himself on the site of the old Vanderbilt library on Fifth avenue.

The body of George W. Vanderbilt was laid at rest today in the family mausoleum in the Moravian cemetery at New Dorp, Staten Island, near the old Vanderbilt residence where he was born fifty-two years ago. The Right Rev. David H. Greer, Episcopal bishop of New York, conducted a brief service at the tomb. A small company of relatives and friends who came from Washington last night after the funeral services in that city, was at the cemetery.

DORSEY PLANS FIGHT.
Numerous conferences have been held by the solicitor general the past few days with the city detectives who worked up the case against Frank, and the solicitor is already preparing to fight the extraordinary motion for a new trial, which will be filed during the next thirty days by the defense.

Solicitor Dorsey is devoted to practically every morning in the trial of the routine cases in the criminal division of the superior court, but his afternoon, it is said, are devoted to the Frank case, and through the detectives he is familiarizing himself with each new development.

Solicitor Dorsey refused to discuss with newspapermen the value of the new evidence which has recently been developed by the Frank defense, but men close to the solicitor say he does not consider that the aspect of the case has been changed in the slightest degree by the new evidence.

A feature of the case is the expected arrival of William J. Burns, who has been employed by Dr. B. Wildauer and Milton Klein, friends of Frank, to make a study of the case in an effort to develop any material evidence, which has been overlooked by the city detectives or by the numerous investigators who have been at work for the defendant.

CHARGES COAL TRUST DOMINATES SOUTHERN

Senator Tillman Asks Probe of Alleged Alliance on Coal Movement

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Charging that the Southern railway is dominated by men not financially interested in coal mines in its own territory, but in mines elsewhere, and that for this reason the Southern is not allowed to move coal through the port of Charleston, S. C., Senator Tillman today introduced a resolution for investigation by the naval affairs committee into advantages of Charleston as a permanent point for coal distribution as compared with Norfolk and other Chesapeake ports.

The committee would be directed to investigate the character and proximity of the coal supply; rates obtainable on coal from fields near Charleston and Norfolk; relations between the railroads leading into Charleston and other South Atlantic ports; and between these railroads and owners of bituminous fields in Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Kentucky; and conditions of operation of wharves and property in Charleston and Norfolk.

Senator Tillman set forth that "it appears from numerous complaints before the interstate commerce commission that the power and influence of the so-called coal trust is being persistently used through the management of the railroads reaching Charleston to prevent the free movement of coal not belonging to the coal trust, practically all of such roads being actually dominated by the same financial outlet chiefly through New York harbor, Philadelphia and the Chesapeake bay ports."

DISCUSS IRISH HOME

RULE QUESTION AGAIN

Unions Dissatisfied With the

Method of Voting on the

Exclusion of Ulster

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, March 10.—The possibility of a settlement of the Irish rule controversy was again today in the forefront of popular interest. The opinions of the various parties as to the effect of the concessions offered in the house of commons yesterday by Lord Lansdowne were widely discussed. The nationalists are dissatisfied with the suggested method of voting by counties on the exclusion of Ulster, or portions of it, on the question of home rule.

Nationalists declared the cabinet had gone to the limit toward conciliation. The independent opinion of the country seems inclined to the feeling that the concessions offered by the cabinet are not sufficient to bring about a settlement, and this feeling is strengthened by Sir Edward Carson's counter offer on behalf of the Ulster conference providing for the limitation on the exclusion of the northern counties to a period of six years be struck out.

It is pointed out here in parliamentary circles that the recognition by the cabinet of the nationalists of the principle of the exclusion of Ulster, if they vote in favor of it, even if the exclusion be only temporary, is a great step in advance from last year's policy of "stiff upper lip."

This attitude of the cabinet and the Irish Nationalists, it is argued, allows for negotiations during the three weeks for which the debate on the home rule bill has been turned.

The stumbling blocks in the way of a settlement of the Irish question are the Unionists, who want a general election at any cost, in the hope of defeating the government; and also the nationalists, who follow William O'Brien and are opposed to any kind of exclusion being granted to Ulster.

TWO ARE CHARGED WITH

KIDNAPING GIRL OF FIVE

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 10.—Following the disappearance of Bettie Eide, Co. 1, 1st Cavalry, the daughter of E. C. Cole, a prominent farmer, officer today arrested Tom Tinsley, Walter Tinsley and Beattie Reynolds, charged with aiding and abetting in kidnapping the girl. The father of the child, who is now being held in the county jail, has been issued for Bettie and Carrie Tinsley, the former being the aunt of the little girl. The two women are alleged to have left here with the child.

THIS NEW MEDICINE

SAVES YOU MONEY

We are druggists right here in your town and make a living out of the drug business, but it is because people have to have drugs and not because we like to see people suffer—we don't. Our duty is to render the best service we can, and when someone is ailing, we are interested in seeing them take the best medicine there is for their particular trouble. We don't recommend "cure-alls," as we don't believe there are such things. We want you to spend more than you have to. Some of you get small wages, and when you're sick, none at all, and you should get the most you can for your money.

We recently came across a new remedy for increasing strength and building up people who are run-down and emaciated. We know that a slight trouble sometimes grows into a serious one, and to stop it in the beginning, this new compound is called Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. It is the best remedy, when you are run-down, tired out, nervous, or when someone is ailing, we are interested in seeing them take the best medicine there is for their particular trouble. We don't recommend "cure-alls," as we don't believe there are such things. We want you to spend more than you have to. Some of you get small wages, and when you're sick, none at all, and you should get the most you can for your money.

CUMMINS WILL APPEAL FOR EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY

Term in Sing Sing for Larceny Faces Former Head of Carnegie Trust

(By Associated Press.) William J. Cummins, one time head of the defunct Carnegie Trust company, who was convicted nearly three years ago of the larceny of $140,000, was taken to Sing Sing prison from the Tombs today to serve a sentence of not less than four years and not more than eight years and eight months.

By appeals and other methods, counsel for Cummins kept him out of Sing Sing nearly 900 days after his conviction. He will now appeal to Governor Glynn for a pardon, on the ground that he rendered assistance to the state in the hearings regarding the trust company.

EJECTED FROM "MOVIES," WANTS $2,500 DAMAGES

Twenty-five hundred dollars would repay him for the mental anguish he suffered as he was forcibly ejected from a "movie" amid the jeers of the audience, which forgot the film to laugh at his humiliation, H. H. Sikles, a youth, declares in a suit filed Monday against S. B. Johnston, manager of the American theater.

Sikles, who brings his suit through his father as next friend, declares that he went to the American theater on March 5, bought his ticket, and quietly took his seat.

He acted in a perfectly orderly manner, he asserts, and his interest was focused in the film until suddenly an attendant appeared at his side and told him to leave the theater.

Sikles declares that he refused to move, and soon thereafter S. B. Johnston, the manager, appeared, and forcibly ejected him. He was greatly humiliated and embarrassed, he asserts, and asks that the court award him $2,500 damages from Johnston.

Women to Assist Bread Winners, Says Mrs. Neely

MRS. FRANK H. NEELY.

Predicts Early Marriages With Women, Who Will Continue at Their Trade or Profession, Gives Women Independence

"Early marriages, made possible by the fact that the woman will continue to work in her business, trade or profession after marriage as before, will be one of the excellent natural results of the modern economic independence of women," said Mrs. Frank H. Neely, 623 Piedmont avenue, an ardent suffragist and feminist.

Mrs. Neely, chairman of the publicity committee of the fashionable Eighth Ward Suffrage league, is doing much to insure the success of the big suffrage rally in the Atlanta theater Wednesday night.

"The average age of marriage is getting to be later every year. Modern conditions, the high cost of living, practically force the average man and woman to wait until the best years of their youth—between twenty and thirty—are passed before marrying.

"In large communities like New York, and generally in the north and east, where there is a vast army of women working absolutely independent of men, supporting themselves and sometimes, often, in fact, the bread winner for the family, early marriages are becoming almost unknown.

"There are many reasons for this. The women, many of them supporting themselves alone much better than some young man, who is perhaps working for almost the same salary as a stenographer or clerk, could support them, do not feel as if they can surrender this independence and comfort to become a household drudge, even if they love the man.

"Yet women receive smaller salaries than men equally competent. Because the woman, in the past, generally stops her work for good and all as soon as she gets married, thus making the firm that employed her break in a new and inexperienced woman for her place.

"Men of the same ability draw larger salaries because they are expected, and rightly so, to continue to try to advance themselves permanently with the firm or company.

"There is no reason why the average working years of a modern business woman, now said to be about two or three, should not be very largely increased. This average increase would mean more pay for all of the women. And it would mean more happiness for men and women. For it will be accomplished by early marriage, during the first years of which the man and the woman will both be breadwinners for the family.

"The man, with the incentive of a home and a wife to work for, and with poverty and hardship stayed off by the joint earnings of himself and wife, should be able, during the first years of married life, to advance himself infinitely more in his business or profession than if he had remained single. Then, after two or three years, when children come, the woman could devote herself entirely to the home, with the man then able to care adequately for his small family.

"Statistics show a surprising number, and a yearly increasing number, of marriages between men and women who continue in their positions held before marriage.

"As woman becomes increasingly independent, marriages of this sort will inevitably become more numerous. The present idea that a man should provide

LACY EVIDENCE IS USED IN TRIAL OF J. G. OAKLEY

Deposit Slips and Checks Admissible, Rules Judge

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 10.—When the second day's session of the trial of James G. Oakley, president of the state board of convict inspectors for two years, who is charged in fourteen indictments with embezzling state funds, was begun Tuesday, Judge Armstrong ruled that all deposit slips and checks used in the trial of Theo Lacy, former chief clerk, could be offered in evidence in an effort to show that Oakley had a guilty knowledge of Lacy's transactions.

The defense objected to the documentary evidence on the ground that it could not show a connection with Oakley and the embezzlement of $2,207.02, on which charge he is being tried now. Judge Purifoy, chief clerk of the state treasury, testified that neither Oakley nor Lacy ever made a deposit of $2,207.02 in cash with the treasury. Charles L. Harold, president of the Montgomery Savings bank, identified deposit slips and checks he said were placed in his bank by Theo Lacy.

POLICEMAN BREAKS HAND SMASHING NEGRO'S HEAD

County Policeman Walters is nursing a broken hand because the member came in contact with the head of Henry Johnson, colored participant in a crap game.

Policeman Walters, with Officer Swords, raided a game at Inman yards Sunday, and the seven negroes engaged in the gentle pastime made a dash for liberty.

Johnson tried to draw a gun, so Walters hit him with his billy. He missed the negro, but followed the flick with a left to the head, shattering two bones in his hand.

Five of the seven negroes, including Johnson, were captured, and fined $50 and costs in the city criminal court.

FIRE IN TERRE HAUTE DOES $250,000 DAMAGES

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 10.—Fire early today damaged four buildings in the heart of the business district, entailing a loss estimated at $250,000. The blaze, discovered in the building occupied by E. H. Bindley & Co., wholesale druggists, spread to a store occupied by a large clothing company, a hardware establishment and another drug house.

everything for the woman, when the woman is able to provide for herself, is preventing many happy unions between young people. But this idea will pass away. Of course the change will come sooner in the eastern and northern communities than in the south. Some day in the future, marriages between really young, happy, working men and women will become universal. And it will mean more happiness for both of them than under the present system, where the woman has to take up outside activities and has to seek outside, un lucrative work with which to occupy the time she has left over after caring for her home and husband and children."

Senators Are Absolutely Eating Their Way to the Grave, Declares Tillman

Senator Discourses Learnedly on Evil of Too Much Eating, Drinking and Smoking, for Edification of His Fellows

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, March 10.—Senators today were discussing with unusual interest Senator Tillman's declaration in his address on his non-smoking resolution, that he believed he could lengthen the life of every man in the chamber "if I could only get them to believe what I tell them and follow my advice." The South Carolina senator asserted his colleagues ate too much. "Since I was paralyzed four years ago and read my own obituary," he said, "twenty or thirty senators, including Vice President Sherman, most of them younger than I, have died."

A fitting epitaph, he said, for senators who have died in service would be "He lived not wisely, but too well, and killed himself eating."

"There is no doubt to my mind that this great mortality among us is due to the way we live in Washington," declared Mr. Tillman. "There is a continuous succession of banquets, dinners and receptions. Automobiles and street cars are used by senators instead of walking, and pure air and sunshine are things of which we get too little."

FROM CELLAR TO GARRET.
Continuing, Senator Tillman said: "Tobacco, I have been told by physicians, is a narcotic or sedative, while whiskey is a stimulant, as every one knows. Many men use both, and are constantly on the journey from the garret to the cellar and back, being whipped and their nerves racked by the constant conflict going on in their system while the stimulant and the sedative contend for mastery. It is the abuse, not the use of whiskey and tobacco that is so dangerous to health, for in moderation they are both harmless, I think."

"Since my illness four years ago I have learned more about the human body than during all the balance of my life put together, and I am sure I discovered some of the secrets of nature and laws of health of which most men know nothing whatever. The pity of it is that I had to ruin my health before I discovered these things and learned how to live rationally. Had I lived ten years ago as I am doing now, my health never would have broken down at all."

"I owe what degree of recovery I have made—and I am constantly being told I look a great deal better, and I know it is so—to will power and self-control in eating—the will power to exercise my muscles and nerves sufficiently to give them tone, and keep the rust out of the joints. But the greatest help to my health arises from the self-control, which enables me to keep from eating things I ought not to."

Senator Tillman's resolution, unanimously adopted, forbids smoking during executive sessions. He said he had been forced to leave the chamber and the caucus room during secret sessions because he could not endure the fumes of tobacco.

DR. JOHN C. PICKARD'S HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

Blaze at 340 Courtland Street Causes Loss of Several Thousand Dollars

The home of Dr. John C. Pickard, at 340 Courtland street, was damaged by fire to the extent of several thousand dollars at noon Monday.

The blaze is thought to have caught in an upstairs room. It had been burning for some time when discovered and was not safely under control by firemen, who hurried to the scene, until it had burned the roof away and endangered property on either side.

The Major William P. Slaton home next door to Dr. Pickard's, was scorched by the flames, but suffered no serious damage.

Dr. Pickard is one of the owners of the Pickard-Dean Drug company, that suffered severely in the McKenzie building fire two weeks ago.

Spring Unfolds Her Fairest Fashions

Paquin Stages Her New Styles at the Ritz-Carlton in New York

Curtains Have Been Withdrawn The Spring Style Show Is On

AT New York's most fashionable hotel—the Ritz-Carlton—Paquin, the great Paris dressmaker, has made the most notable exhibit of Paris fashions ever shown in America.

Mannequins from Paris

were used to stage the performance, all of them garbed in Paquin costumes. Many of these costumes by reason of their beauty and smart lines, will set the fashions for spring.

Mrs. L. Davenport Now in Charge of Our Dressmaking Salon Attended these Paquin performances. Having taken copious notes and purchased materials similar to these Paquin costumes, Mrs. Davenport is now ready to reproduce or adapt them for Atlanta women.

In addition, Mrs. Davenport saw the models of Poiret, Drecoll, Cheruit, Callot, etc., from which she gathered ideas to help her in designing Spring wraps, suits and gowns. Exclusive materials specially purchased insure each customer an individual selection, not to be duplicated. (Dressmaking Salon, Main Floor, Left Annex.)

New, new, NEW! Women's and Misses' outer apparel and millinery in a galaxy of charming styles. What are they? Come and see; no poor words of ours can convey their wondrous beauty.

Only by seeing the new fashions, by trying on a new coat, suit or hat can you perceive how suitable to you are the present styles.

A five minutes' actual acquaintance with the new styles will tell you more about them than any page word-picture ever penned. Welcome.

$1 Silk Stockings at 49c

—The manufacturer says these stockings are "seconds," that is, they show a dropped thread or slight mar which never do any real harm. For these tiny "hurts," the half price makes ample amends.

—Stockings are pure thread silk; full fashioned with high spliced silk heel. Lisle feet and tops. Black, with a sprinkling of white, tan and colors.

Children's Hose: Half Price

—A splendid spring stocking for boys and girls. Mercerized lisle ribbed with double woven heels and toes. All sizes 6 to 9 in black or tan. This is a perfect 25c stocking; choose tomorrow at 15c a pair, or two pairs for 25c.

(Main Floor, Right.)

$1 Braid Pins 79c

—Tango Braid pins—because of their scarcity some stores have been selling them at $1.25. Shell, amber or Demi-blond with 3 rows of sparkling rhinestones (60 in all) at top. Just one hundred and twenty pins in all—this notice should sell 'em in a day.

(Main Floor, Center.)

35c to 60c Ribbons 27c

—Ribbons for girls' sashes; ribbons for hats; ribbons for dress trimmings—ribbons of almost every kind and description, are piled helter-skelter on one big table:

—There are plain satins and taffetas in black and taffetas in black and colors; pretty plaids and Persians; fanciful floral designs; rich Roman stripes; light and dark warp prints and others. 5 to 8 inches wide; values 35c to 60c, choice 27c.

25c to 50c Pleatings 19c

—Ruffings, ruchings, pleatings—a whole family of frilly, fluffy neckfixings. Oddments, but all fresh and attractive.

—Nets, shadow laces and malines are used alone and occasionally combined. White, ecru and black; and white and colored malines. Various widths.

When You Buy Silk Taffeta Here you Don't Pay for Tin

—Here is why taffeta silks went out of fashion. In making silk yarn from raw silk 18% to 24% of the weight boils away.

—Some of the silk manufacturers replaced this weight with bichloride of tin, zinc or even lead by means of baths. Often the fabric contained more metal than silk.

—Naturally these silks soon split. Because they wouldn't wear, taffeta silks went out of fashion.

—Silk taffetas are back in fashion. We and the reputable silk manufacturers intend to keep them in, by barring out from our silks all metal.

When you buy taffetas here you will not pay for TIN.

—Chiffon taffetas here of PUREST SILK, soft and pliant in solid colors, changeable, stripe and floral patterns at $1.50. All 36 inches wide.

Two Opening Specials In Hats at $10 & $12.50

—Though our Opening Displays of fine New York and Paris hats, together with our own exclusive creations, have evoked the highest admiration, we would not have you think that we sell high priced hats alone.

—To demonstrate our leadership in other styles, therefore, we have arranged this special sale of hats at $10 and $12.50.

—Styles as illustrated are the newest—the high trim; the small, close-fitting hats; the large hats with flat crown; the trimmed bandeau. Milan hems are used chiefly, with trimmings or ribbons, flowers and feathers. Black and the leading spring shades. $10 and $12.50. (Millinery, Second Floor.)

Society Leader Tells How Love for Daughter Inspired Desperate Dash in Auto Through Dark Everglades in Florida

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DAYTONA, Fla., March 10.—"Yes, I stole my own baby girl, and I would do it again, because I had fought for her in the courts until I was desperate, and my mother's love was so great that I could bear to be separated from her no longer," said the beautiful Mrs. Newton C. Fasset, society leader and wife of a wealthy Spokane, Wash., manufacturing chemist. Fasset is the son of former Congressman J. Sloat Fasset, of New York.

"I divorced Edward McCallie, of Chattanooga, Tenn., two years ago, after the former Cornell football star had failed to support me. At that time I was granted the custody of my baby boy, while McCallie was given the custody of Katherine, who was then but three years old.

"I was desperate, for, oh! I DID WANT MY LITTLE GIRL so badly, so I resolved to take the law into my own hands and steal my baby. I went to Orlando, Fla., and, entering my former father-in-law's house, I took little Katherine and smuggled her into a huge racing auto.

"The McCallies raised the countryside, and sheriff's posses were sent in pursuit, and police officers in every large town in the south were notified of the abduction. But I went across half of the entire state to Daytona, thereby throwing the pursuers off my trail.

"It was a wild midnight ride through the Florida everglades, a hundred-mile race through dark jungles and over forest roads. But I had one of the most daring drivers in America at the wheel.

"Katherine was legally given to me by a Spokane judge after the kind-hearted man had learned the full details of the case.

"I am so happy, and the terror of that night when I fled through the dark Florida everglades and came untraced is all forgotten in the joy of having my babies with me."

NEW JAIL FOR SEPARATION OF PRISONERS TO BE BUILT

NEW YORK, March 10.—To comply with the provisions of a new law for the separation of men and women prisoners, the city will build a special jail of the modern office building type, fourteen stories high. The jail will be the tallest building of its kind in the world. The building will have besides the jail, court rooms, a detention department and offices for direction of the city's correctional work among women. The board of estimates appropriated $450,000 for construction of the building.

AMERICAN EXHIBIT TO BE ESTABLISHED IN CHILI

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, March 10.—A valuable method of advertising American products abroad was pointed out today by A. Hamilton West, until recently vice consul for the United States at Valparaiso, Chili, who said that thousands of dollars' worth of American-made furniture has been sold in the South American country as a result of equipping the American consulate with goods from this country.
Mr. West's enthusiasm to see American trade with South America increase and his belief that a fertile field is awaiting cultivation in Chili has led him to undertake the organization of a permanent American exhibit at Santiago, capital of the west coast country. It is planned to open this exhibit on September next, on the occasion of Sec-

Licking Cigars by Makers Ordered Put To a Stop in Penna.

(By Associated Press.)
HARRISBURG, Pa., March 10.—Notice was given today by Commissioner Jackson, of the department of labor and industry, that cigarmakers must stop placing tips of cigars in their mouths during manufacture.
"The practice of licking or wetting the end of the cigar seems to be a more or less prevalent practice and one which is not only unsafe to the operatives, but certainly undesirable for the smoker," said Dr. Jackson.

retary Bryan's proposed visit to Chili to attend the opening of the fifth Pan-American conference, at which representatives of all the twenty-one American republics will be present.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED ON MR. HUNERKOPFF'S DEATH

At a recent meeting of the officers and directors of the Atlanta Builders' exchange, resolutions of sympathy for the family of the late L. P. Hunerkopff were passed and copies of the resolutions were sent to the family. The resolutions read:
"Our hearts go out in tender sympathy to the family of Mr. L. P. Hunerkopff, whose death occurred on February 27, 1914, at his home in Atlanta, Georgia.
"Mr. Hunerkopff was an honored member of the Atlanta Builders' exchange and was held in the highest esteem by our members and by all who knew him. He was a straightforward and honorable man, kindhearted and sincere in all his dealings, always ready to lend a helping hand to any worthy cause."

When the food reaches the stomach it is subjected to a peculiar churning movement by the muscular walls of the stomach. (See Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, page 45). In the liver, kidneys and skin, the blood is purified of its waste materials—these organs act as human filters, leaving the blood pure and clear—unless liver, digestive tract and kidneys are clogged.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

is a stomach, liver and kidney tonic—by assisting the stomach to assimilate, the liver to filter, the kidneys to act—the poisons are removed, the red blood corpuscles are increased and one feels light, fresh and active instead of logy, dull and heavy. The "Discovery" stimulates the stomach, increases action of heart and arteries and is a most satisfactory alternative in blood-taint of any character. The refreshing influence of this extract of native medicinal plants has been favorably known for over forty years. Everywhere some neighbor can tell you of the good it has done.

Sold by all medicine dealers in liquid or tablet form; or send 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and a trial box will be mailed you.

DENIES SUICIDE STORY

SAYS HUSBAND DASHED THE ACID IN HER FACE

Mrs. Rosa Knight Tells Startling Story—Husband Held at Station

A police investigation, based on charges of Mrs. Rosa Knight that her husband threw carbolic acid in her face in her room at the Hotel Piedmont last night and then said she tried to commit suicide, is being conducted today.

Mrs. Knight is painfully injured at the Grady hospital and Knight is held at police headquarters. He declares this is the second time his wife has tried suicide and says that each time she accused him of attempting to murder her. Mrs. Knight declared Tuesday morning that her husband's act was premeditated. She said both of them were in a moving picture show in Macon, their home, Monday. At that time, she said, she accused Knight of being unfaithful to her and told him she was going to Atlanta.

"I'll believe you when I see you buy your ticket," Mrs. Knight says he told her. While they were in the picture show Mrs. Knight says her husband excused himself and went to a nearby drug store. It was then, she says, he bought the carbolic acid.

According to her story, she then went to the station and boarded a train for Atlanta, Knight trailing her. She says she came to the Piedmont and registered as Mrs. W. K. Harding in order to keep Knight from giving her trouble.

FORCED DOOR OPEN. About 8 o'clock he knocked at her door. Mrs. Knight says she turned out the light and tried to hold the door against him, but that he forced it open. She turned on the light again, she says, and her husband said:

"Well, I've found you!"

"All right," Mrs. Knight says she replied. "What are you going to do about it? Take me to a movie?"

Knight turned and walked to the washstand, she says, where he asked her if she wanted a drink. She says she watched him take a small phial from his pocket and pour its contents into a glass.

Then she screamed, she declares, as her husband seized her round the neck, kissed her and dashed the acid into her face.

Mrs. Knight says that all her husband's charges against her are false, especially those that characterize her as a woman of bad character.

Knight's story differs essentially from Mrs. Knight's. According to him, she left her home at 2108 Broadway, Macon, last Thursday and went to the Hotel Lanier in Macon, where she lived in an immoral manner.

Knight says he trailed her to Atlanta, recognized her signature despite the assumed name and walked to her room just in time to prevent her swallowing the carbolic acid. Whichever story is correct, both were painfully injured and were taken to the Grady. Mrs. Knight may lose both her eyes, while Knight is terribly burned on the arms and hands.

HOW TROUBLE STARTED. The whole trouble, according to information at police headquarters, came from Mrs. Knight's desire to see her little ten-year-old daughter, Thelma, who is said to be here in the Home for the Friendless. As Mrs. Knight was taken from the hotel to the hospital she continued to moan, "My little child! I want to see my little child again!"

The story Knight told detectives Monday night was that he married in September, 1912, and that he was Mrs. Knight's third husband. The little girl, he says, is the child of Mrs. Knight's first husband, Henry McClain, now dead.

Mrs. Knight was originally a Miss Rosa White, of Norfolk, he says, marrying Henry McClain eleven years ago. When McClain died she is said to have married William Diggs, of Portsmouth, Va., and to have obtained a divorce from him.

Knight charges the woman tried to hang herself once before in Baltimore and when unsuccessful accused him of attempted murder. He says she later confessed to the police it was attempted suicide.

He charges further that she deserted him and the child soon after their marriage and went to Baltimore. He says they were reconciled and came to live at 29 East Harris street, where he says Mrs. Knight accused him of trying to kidnap the child, following which the little girl was sent to the home here by order of Judge W. W. Tindall, of the juvenile court.

They are said to have become reconciled again and moved to Macon. Knight says he came to Atlanta Sunday in search of his wife, but could not find her and went back to Macon. At the Piedmont it was stated Mrs. Knight registered there Monday morning under the name of Mrs. W. K. Harding.

He came back to Atlanta late Monday afternoon, and certain that his wife was in the city, began a canvass of registry books in the hotels. The Piedmont was one of the first he tried. He at once recognized his wife's signature, despite the assumed name.

Mrs. Knight Secretly Left Macon Home, Say Relatives (Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., March 10.—Mrs. D. W. Knight, who is said to have swallowed poison in the Piedmont hotel in Atlanta last night, is said to have secretly left her home here last Thursday and her relatives here did not know her whereabouts until this morning. She left the city while her husband, who is a flagman for the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad, was out on his run, and he did not know she was missing until his return Friday. Since that time, he has been hunting her. Mr. and Mrs. Knight lived at 1912 Third street. She has a daughter, ten years old, now said to be an inmate in a Catholic orphanage in Atlanta.

She married about two years ago in Jacksonville, where they lived before she moved to Macon. Her father and a sister now reside in Baltimore, according to relatives of her husband.

According to Mrs. G. V. Knight, the sixty-five-year-old mother of the husband, her son left Macon in search of his wife last Friday morning immediately after he found she had left home. Just where went she did not know and has not heard from him since he left. When told of Mrs. Knight's attempt to end her life, the aged mother-in-law sank into hysterics.

Knight's son worshipped his wife," she declared, "but she apparently had but little love for him. Oftentimes while he was out on the road she would leave home and nobody knew where she was for days at the time. She left Macon and went to Norfolk, Va., at one time and my son went there and brought her home."

GRAND OPERA TICKET SALE BREAKS RECORD

More Than $41,000 Taken in for Season Seats on Opening Day

That Atlanta is more devoted to grand opera than ever is indicated by the opening day's sale of season tickets at the stores of the Cable Piano company and Phillips & Crew. More than $41,000 in cash was received on the first day, a figure far ahead of any previous season.

One of the officers of the music festival association stated Tuesday that the sale was so far ahead of expectations that for a time he feared the auditorium's whole seating capacity would be absorbed in the season sale, leaving small opportunity to those who desired tickets for individual operas.

It is probable, however, that the great rush will be over within a few days, and the auditorium, seating more than 5,000, should leave ample space for those who do not care to hear every opera.

The season sale will continue through March 28, when tickets for single operas will be offered.

HOTEL 'BEATS' SUBJECT TO FINE OR IMPRISONMENT

The law passed by the Georgia general assembly in 1910, making it a misdemeanor for any person to take lodging at a hotel with intent to defraud said hotel, was Tuesday morning declared constitutional by the state supreme court in the case of Smith vs. the State, appealed from the city court of Tifton.

This case was first taken to the state court of appeals, and that tribunal certified the constitutional questions raised to the supreme court. According to article I, section 1, paragraph 21, of the constitution, which prohibits imprisonment for debt, or does it violate any provision of the federal constitution.

The law, which was passed for the protection of hotels and lodging houses against "dead beats," provides a penalty of $200 fine, or three months' imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the judge.

Frank Should Have A New Trial

On April 26, 1913, in the City of Atlanta, in a building situated on one of the most crowded thoroughfares, a young girl just budding into womanhood was cruelly and brutally murdered. The crime was enveloped in deepest and most impenetrable mystery. Circumstances pointed vaguely to several individuals as being the possible murderer, but to no one convincingly. The city and indeed the whole country were horrified. The very brutality of the crime aroused public indignation to a degree of frenzy almost inconceivable. The criminal was demanded and the criminal must be found.

An irresponsible drunken negro charged Leo Frank with the crime. He related in minute and nauseating detail the horrible circumstances surrounding the murder. No other victim could be discovered, and in the absence of convincing evidence against anybody else, public fury gradually centered on Frank.

As time went on the mystery deepened. There was no satisfying circumstance indicating that Frank committed the crime and it required the negro's testimony to furnish even a basis for the accusation. The fact that this horrible crime had been committed and no other victim could be discovered was alone sufficient to cause the negro's testimony to be accepted by the public. He would not have been believed under other conditions, but an outraged public demanded a victim, and circumstances seemed in some slight degree to sustain the negro's testimony.

Frank was placed on trial last August. Public indignation was still at white heat. The trial was perhaps the longest and certainly the most sensational that ever occurred in the South. The jury found Frank guilty. A new trial was refused. The presiding judge stated in his refusal that he had been unable to make up his mind as to whether the man was guilty or innocent, but that the determination of that question was in the province of the jury, and the jury had declared him guilty. The Supreme Court was appealed to, and that Court decided that no error had been committed sufficient to justify setting aside the jury's verdict. Frank is under sentence of death. He is to be hanged on April 17th, unless execution of the sentence is delayed.

The Journal cares absolutely nothing for Frank, or for those who were engaged in his defense or prosecution. If Frank is found guilty after a fair trial, he ought to be hanged and his case should be made a horrible example to those who would destroy human life, for generations to come.

We recognize the justice of the rule that precludes the press from discussing, editorially at least, cases while pending in court. We have always respected both the necessity and the propriety of this rule. We do not wish to violate it now, but this case is so extraordinary in every phase and detail, so important in the consequences that may follow and so dangerous to the sanctity of the courts and the safety of the people themselves, that ordinary rules do not apply. Besides, so far as the record shows, this is a finished case. The prisoner has been sentenced to death, and nothing remains but to execute the mandate of the court. We do not therefore violate the proprieties of journalism nor offend against the peace, good order, and dignity of the State, when in simple justice and with profound respect for the courts and jury, as well as the lawyers on both sides of this remarkable case, we plead for a new trial for this unfortunate man.

The courts have their great responsibilities and their arduous duties to perform, and be it said to their everlasting credit, they discharge those duties to the best of human ability. But even juries are sometimes swayed by environment and the judicial ermine is not infallible. Infallibility is an attribute of omnipotence and omniscience only. Responsibility for the enforcement of the law and the punishment of crime rests largely but not exclusively upon the courts. The press also has its share of responsibility, and it seems to The Journal that the time has come for the press to speak. The Journal will do so now even though every other newspaper in Georgia remains silent.

It is our duty to help enforce the laws and punish crime, but it is a far more solemn duty to know with reasonable certainty at least that men accused of crime are guilty before they are punished. Error in the administration of the law must be corrected before its consequences are visited upon those not legally convicted; otherwise the law itself falls into disrepute and becomes the scorn of those who should uphold it.

In this respect the press is responsible no less than the courts. Its duties are not in conflict but in aid of the courts. It is the amicus curiae, the friend of the court, in such matters. It is in this spirit that we appeal for a new trial for Frank. Is Frank guilty of the murder of Mary Phagan? We do not know. He may be guilty or he may be innocent. He may be a fiend incarnate, or he may be the victim of a cruel conspiracy. Whether he is innocent or guilty is not now the question.

Leo Frank has not had a fair trial. He has not been fairly convicted and his death without a fair trial and legal conviction will amount to judicial murder.

We say this with a full understanding of the import of our words and the responsibility that rests upon us in making this appeal. We do so, not in disrespect for the court or the lawyers or the jury. They did the best they could with the lights before them. We honor them for faithfully performing a most unpleasant duty as they saw it.

But this we do say without qualification: it was not within the power of human judges and human lawyers and human jurymen to decide impartially and without fear the guilt or innocence of an accused man under the circumstances that surrounded this trial.

The very atmosphere of the court room was charged with an electric current of indignation which flashed and scintillated before the very eyes of the jury. The courtroom and streets were filled with an angry, determined crowd, ready to seize the defendant if the jury had found him not guilty. Cheers for the prosecuting counsel were irrepressible in the courtroom throughout the trial and on the streets unseemly demonstrations in condemnation of Frank were heard by the judge and jury. The judge was powerless to prevent these outbursts in the courtroom and the police were unable to control the crowd outside.

So great was the danger that the Fifth Regiment of the National Guard was kept under arms throughout a great part of the night, ready to rush on a moment's warning to the protection of the defendant. The press of the city united in an earnest request to the presiding judge to not permit the verdict of the jury to be received on Saturday as it was thought it would be, because it was known that a verdict of acquittal would cause a riot such as would shock the country and cause Atlanta's streets to run with innocent blood. Under such indescribable conditions as these, Frank was tried and convicted. Was a fair trial, under such circumstances, possible? Could a man be legally and fairly convicted while a threatening and uncontrollable mob was breathing vengeance in the very faces of the judge and jury?

Frank may be guilty. If so he should suffer the extreme penalty of the law by hanging, for surely no more horrible crime was ever committed; but in the name of Justice and in the name of the good people of the State of Georgia, who believe in fair play, who stand for the enforcement of law and the punishment of crime, after legal conviction, let this man be fairly tried. If he is guilty, he will be convicted again. The majesty of the law cannot be offended, justice cannot be defeated, the feelings of an outraged community cannot be further outraged, by according to this man a fair and impartial trial.

The evidence on which he was convicted is not clear. Suppose he is hanged and it should develop that the man was innocent as he claims? The people of this state would stand before the world convicted of murdering an innocent man by refusing to give him an impartial trial. Such a horrible thing is unthinkable. And yet it is possible; yea, an absolute certainty that we are going to do that very thing unless the courts interfere.

Ought Frank to have a new trial? The question carries its own answer:

"Let Justice be done, though the Heavens fall."

The Conning Tower

BY FRANKLIN P. ADAMS.

THE TIED BUSINESS MAN'S SONG.

The day is done, and the darkness
Falls from the wings of Night.
As it did in the bygone evenings
When Longfellow used to write.

I lamp the lights of the city,
The scintillant signs of the town.
And a feeling of gladness comes o'er me
That simply will not down.

A feeling of gladness and longing
That is not akin to joy.
That resembles sorrow only
As Tanguay resembles Foy.

Come, sing to me some lyric.
Some sinful and stupid lay;
The sort that the Western buyers
Applaud at a cabaret.

Not from the grand old masters
Not from the highbrow bunch,
Who make the music-lovers
Assert that they had the punch.

For, like strains of Debussy music,
They make me ready to drop
Into deep and endless slumber.
And to-night I long for sleep.

Play from some ragtime lyricist.
Whose songs sush'd Heaven's knows whence.
As willful and naughty children
Will write with chalk on a fence;

Who, down in Tin-Pan-Alley,
Or elsewhere I may not hint,
"Composed" the commonplace "music."
Or the words unfit for print.

Such songs have power to rouse
The sluggish pulse of care,
From the Anaconda Wriggle
To the sin-sin Cinnamon Bear.

Then play from that aggregation
The rag with the utmost pep.
And lend to the tune of the lyricist
The grace of the newest step.

And the night shall be filled with ragtime,
And the songs of an elder day
Shall repose in the camphored storehouse
With "Forsaken" and "Nelly Gray."

A Communication to the Editor About the New Dances

Sir, I must acquaint you that very great abuses are creeping into this intertainment. I was amazed to see my girl handled by, and handling, young fellows with so much familiarity. They very often made use of a most lascivious step, called "Settins," which I know not how to describe to you, but by telling you that it is the very reverse of "back to back." At last an impetuous young dog bid the fiddlers play "Molly Patty," and after having made two or three capers, ran to his partner, locked his arm in hers, and whisked her around cleverly above ground in such a manner, that I, who sat upon one of the lowest benches, saw further above her shoe than I can think fit to acquaint you with. I could no longer endure these enormities; wherefore, just as my girl was going to be made a whirligig, I ran in, seized on the child, and carried her home.

Understand Your Husband

By E. K. WOOLEY.

(Copyright, 1914, by E. K. Wooley.)

After a woman has been married ten years she isn't fit for much," said the gray-haired man.
He didn't say it unkindly. He's a man of broad mind, and he believes in equal suffrage—"no good reason why women shouldn't vote same as any other human being," in his opinion.

What he meant was that either the wear and tear of married life has worn out a woman in ten years' time, not a compliment to husbands, by the way, or that a woman, when she marries, considers her mark as made and slumps accordingly, so that at the end of ten years her brain is atrophied and she is literally good for nothing.

We have been speaking of the inability of so many wives to help themselves if sudden death or accident deprived them of support.

Even in cases where the woman had been self-supporting before marriage, she has found herself helpless after a number of years of wifehood—"out of the procession" and unable to get back.

"Honestly, I have been afraid to marry," confessed one business woman who has passed the thirty-year mark. "I have seen so many of the girls marry, give up their jobs, expect everything to be all right forever after and, after seven or eight years or so, come around with two or three little ones holding to their skirts—wanting work. They are hampered by the children, can't give the same attention to their work, and their brains don't seem to be as nimble as they ought to be. And they are hopelessly out-of-date. Most of them seem to stop just at the place they get married, like a clock that's had a bad tumble."

Women are leaning too much on the old idea of the sheltered wife and mother. They must get over the idea that a husband should do all the thinking and buffeting for the wife.

A woman must do more than keep her house in order and see that her children are properly brought up.
She must keep her mind sharp, and be as alert to opportunities as any business man.

I like to think of matrimony as a ship, with Father the captain and Mother the mate—a mate who is the captain's understudy and who can take the wheel and navigate the ship if anything happens to the captain.

If more wives would understudy their husbands, we should have fewer widows "at sea."

Every woman should understand about her husband's investments, should know enough about business to handle his affairs should he be incapacitated.
In order to protect his wife, a man should insist upon her knowing these things, and keep pegging away at her until she grasps them intelligently.

Too often it happens, through a wife's indifference or a husband's negligence or, sometimes, his secretiv-ness, that a man is actually a stranger to his wife in everything outside of their common dwelling place.
She may unknowingly be living beyond her means. She may be skimping and going without actual necessities when he is able to supply comforts. And both may be missing a delight in common interests by not getting together and cultivating an intelligent interest in each other's affairs.

The Journal's Letter Box

Marietta, Ga., March 9, 1914.

Editor The Journal:
I notice in The Journal of March 7, Mr. W. A. Brannon wants to know why we "sagacious, progressive Georgia farmers" raise cotton instead of corn, peas, hay, etc. We do so because we can make more money raising cotton. Using his language, I will say:

"Here is the proof":
One man can prepare, plant, cultivate and gather twenty acres in corn and peas, conservative estimate of yield and prices:

500 bushels corn at 70 cents.....$350.00
3,000 bundles of fodder at $2..... 60.00
Peas, between rows, 20 bushels at $1.50..... 30.00

Total.....$440.00
Full estimate on cotton for same man with equal cost of fertilizer, etc., more work.

15 acres, 15 bales, at $70.....$1,050.00
Seed to pay for picking.....$1,050.00

Total.....$2,100.00
Gross difference favor cotton.....$ 610.00

Now, I do not know that I am any of the big names Mr. Brannon speaks of, but I am a farmer and his figures are dissected "some." He may be a better one; in fact, he may rank away up amongst those named in the last paragraph of his letter, but if the majority of farmers of Georgia try to follow his plan, the "wads" in their pocketbooks will be dissected about in the same way.

Very truly yours,

C. W. FOWLER.

AMERICAN CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE IN EUROPE

By Frederic J. Haskin

Among the most striking indications that the United States is shaking off its apathetic disregard for a share in international commerce and finance are the well organized, thoroughly aggressive chambers of commerce which have been established by American business men during the last twenty years in the principal distributing centers of Europe. In theory all Americans are agreed that a major slice of the world's trade should fall to the share of this country. However, surpluses of products and wealth are just beginning to make a division in foreign markets a necessity.
The time when the employment and prosperity of this country's people will be contingent upon winning and maintaining an increasing share of foreign business is not far off. In the American commercial organizations of the continent, the home manufacturer will have valuable and trustworthy allies for the accomplishment of his new task.

Chief among the American foreign commercial chambers are the American Association of Commerce and Trade, for Germany, with offices in Berlin; the American Chamber of Commerce, for France, with offices at Paris; the American Chamber of Commerce of Italy, with offices in Naples; the American Chamber of Commerce for the Netherlands and Colonies, located in Amsterdam; the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce, in Moscow; the American Chamber of Commerce for the Levant, with offices in Constantinople and New York City, and the American-Belgian Chamber of Commerce of Brussels.

Of these the Paris and Berlin organizations are the strongest and, likely, the most important for the development of our foreign trade, as the two capitals in which they are organized are, barring London, coming to be the great central depots for the distribution of Merchandise to the millions of continental buyers.
Most of the larger wholesale traders from whatever European country make up their orders from ideas received in the showrooms of Paris and Berlin. Displays in the agent's windows of these cities have built up a demand for the American style of shoe throughout the length and breadth of Europe.

The American Chamber of Commerce in Paris was organized in 1894. It was one of the first of this country's commercial organizations abroad, and upon its general plan many of the succeeding chambers have been formed. That Paris, which has always stood high in the appreciation of the American, should have had the first virile body was fitting. Since the memory of man the seductive Parisian merchant has garnered rich harvests of this land's dollars. In 1902 declared exports of goods to America at the Paris con-sulate amounted in value to more than $41,000,000.
The declared exports now amount to about $70,000,000 a year. These figures do not include the vast quantity of costumes, furs, lace, millinery, lingerie, jewelry, antiques, paintings and other articles of luxury, that visiting Americans purchase and take home with them year after year without the formality of declaring them at the consulate and having them invoiced.
Probably, with the unknown element of America's expenditure in the French capital reckoned in, the annual harvest of American money is near to the $100,000,000 mark.

Many American import and export houses maintain branches in Paris through which they carry on business with all buying and selling centers of Europe.
Some of the largest firms of this country are represented at the French capital by the best men in their employ. The greater part of the business men there are pioneers of American commerce abroad. The materials for an energetic, wide-awake, efficient chamber of commerce are, therefore, plentiful.

There are more than 300 members in the Paris chamber. The objects of their organization, as recited in their constitution, are the furtherance of the development of commerce between the United States and France, collection of information and examination of questions pertaining to these countries' commercial and industrial relationships, the encouragement and facilitation of the transaction of business between them, and especially the promotion of American interests. American citizens, firms and corporations are eligible to active membership; while foreign individuals, firms and corporations interested in the objects of the organization are eligible as associate members.
The foreign membership is not permitted to exceed one-tenth of the active membership.

The chamber maintains close relations with the American consular officers in Europe, with the embassy at Paris, with the department of commerce in Washington, and with other foreign American commercial organizations. It is a member of the chamber of commerce of the United States, as is, also, the American Chamber of Commerce for the Levant, and it keeps in touch with the various home commercial organizations.

In pursuance of its avowed policy the chamber has devoted itself to the assistance of American manufacturers and business men in their efforts toward establishing themselves in French markets. It has well-considered inquiries concerning business conditions and opportunities from all quarters of the home country, and has answered such inquiries with comprehensive data and with the sound advice of shrewd men intimately acquainted with the situation. Information relating to markets in France, production, costs, government supervision of business, and other matters of interest to the American exporter has been carefully collected by the organization, studied and analyzed. It has represented the interests of American business before the French government in such matters as tariff making and has aided the officials of this government in industrial and commercial investigations.

The Paris chamber is the largest commercial organization of American citizens beyond the borders of the United States. It is incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia. Among its honorary members are Henry White, Robert S. McCormick, General Horace Porter, Robert Bacon and Oscar S. Straus, all former American ambassadors; Captain Frank H. Mason and John K. Gowdy, former American consuls general at Paris; James Gordon Bennett, owner of the New York Herald, and more than fifty presidents of the chambers of commerce of leading American cities. The membership rolls further carry the names of such business men as John P. Branch, Jacob I. Schiff, John Hays Hammond, Mortimer L. Strasburger, F. H. Lambrecht, Henry Clay Frick and James Speyer.

The chamber issues certificates of origin required by American customs in certain cases. It participates in the international congresses of chambers of commerce. Such projects as the Panama-Pacific International Exposition have received enthusiastic support of the body, and all Americans arriving in Paris on business are cheerfully given every reasonable aid. The chamber is well endowed and is planning the construction of its own building.

Other American chambers abroad work along lines similar to those of the Paris chamber. The American Association of Commerce and Trade in Berlin was organized in 1903. Its principal object is that of giving assistance in the introduction of American goods into Germany. It has nearly 250 members, though its proportion of foreign members is larger than in the Paris chamber. The important position which this organization maintains in the German business world may be inferred when considering that more than $33,000,000 worth of goods was exported by this country to Germany last year, while America's total trade with Germany exceeded half a billion dollars. Both the Berlin and Paris organizations issued regular bulletins. In the bulletins of the Berlin chamber is contained regularly a list of opportunities for American articles in that country.

When the American determination awakes to set out and commercially conquer Europe with the great number of articles which are manufactured with more progressive workmanship here than elsewhere, the continental American chambers of commerce may become for the home exporters powerful means for success.

Pavlova's Finished Dancing Makes Modern 'Trots' Look Awkward, Cheap and Tame

Only a Few Moments Required to Fall Under Spell of Famous Artist, and Memory of It Is Something to Cherish Through Life

When Pavlova, her breast throbbing from the wild, whirling climax of the Bacchanale, smiled for the last time upon her worshippers Monday night and the thousand filed out of the theater there was a new worry tugging at their thoughts. Perhaps these tangos and trots are vulgar and foolish, after all! Certainly they would seem cheap, commonplace, awkward, after such dancing as this!

Atlanta had seen Pavlova before, but this is a new divinity of the dance, more wonderful than ever. Her company, too, is far superior. There are half a dozen stars in her constellation who each would shine with brilliance were not Pavlova there. It is true that Mordkin is missed, but Novikoff, even though he lack the incomparable physical perfection which made women rave of Mordkin, is an artist well worthy to share the stage with the Russian genius of the dance.

Do not fear, you who have not fallen under Pavlova's spell, that this divine dancing of Russia is "hard to understand." If you could find beauty in a shattered rainbow dancing on sun-kissed waves you will "understand" the airy polonaise in the opening number. If you could watch with pleasure three happy children playing upon the lawn, you will cry for just another bit of the "Moment Musical," when three Grecian maidens with Pipes o' Pan flit about like feeble moonbeams. If you have stood before a masterpiece of painting and wondered at the stately grace of some lady of quality in the minutest you will wait upon every step of Pavlova and her partner in the gavotte and split your gloves in frantic effort to bring them back to the footlights. It does not require "understanding" to love Pavlova's dancing. One needs only a love of music, a sense of rhythm and eyes that can see the beautiful.

TRULY ROYAL FEAST.
It is truly a royal feast given by the Russians this evening. The "Sire de Danse," which opens the program, is a succession of gorgeous, graceful figures, danced to the music of Chopin in a moonlit vista of shadowy poplars painted by a master. The "Oriental," the dance drama of the evening, is a revelation. It gives Atlanta her first glimpse of the work of Leon Bakst, the Russian painter whose mad color schemes and defiance of convention have set him beyond even the futurists. The settings are great splashes of gray and purple and yellow, the costumes strange fragments of every shape and shade, but all bold, flat colors, crude, barbaric.

The "Oriental" is perhaps the boldest conception ever given Atlanta, too, in its defiance of the tradition which makes the human body something to be suggested rather than revealed. Novikoff, the Tartar knight, is nude from waist to fingertip, except for the jeweled amulet which hangs across his breast, and even this is at last removed when he escapes the temptress' wiles and makes his exit from the court. There are women in filmy garments lolling on soft cushions, Oriental slaves, barelegged, standing guard; and on her dais, high above the throng, Pavlova the Enchantress, swathed in silks of such cobweb texture that the seven veils of Salome are Arctic furs in comparison. The scene is voluptuous beyond expression, but in some strange way, under the spell of the weird music of Rimsky-Korsakoff one does not think about this until afterward. One is too intent upon the pantomime, too busy watching the little movements of Pavlova and the serpent-like writhings of the instrumental figure upon the floor, Oukrainian, whose arms are like darting cobras and whose body seems scarcely human. The ballet has been called the "optical opera."

With such past masters of pantomime as these no word is needed.

A DAINY COLUMBINE.

The third part shifts to a bare stage with a green-banked river in the background, and Pavlova as Columbine dancing with Harlequin and poor PUNCH. It was here, to the lifting measures of a country dance that Pavlova won her most hearty applause up to the time. The music was so infectious, her steps so airy and so merry that the audience fairly shouted its delight. There was a repetition of the number, and then the Polish dance by the company gave a glimpse of the "Russian dancing" attempted by so many companies traveling in the wake of the creators. Then the bewitching sitting of the three Greek maidens, and the "Gavotte Pavlova," with the star and M. Berge. The Hungarian folk dance, with Liszt's throbbing Magyar music for its background, was a riot of swirling color. The "Autumn Bacchanale" followed, with Pavlova and Novikoff flying over the meadow in pure joy at being alive! Then, the curtain, and the people standing at their seats and demanding still another glimpse and another smile.

It required more than one season for every-day Atlantians to learn to enjoy opera, but opera has become loved for its own sake. It will require but a few moments to fall under the spell of Pavlova, and the memory is something to cherish all one's life. She will dance again Tuesday afternoon and yet again on Tuesday night, and she may never return. It's worth thinking over before you decide to forego this pleasure.

DUDLEY GLASS.

Forsyth Vaudeville Has Several Good Features.

There are acts on the bill at the Forsyth this week which are entitled to be distinguished from the other vaudeville offerings by the term "features." They are: Ismed, the Turkish pianist; Laddie Cliff, the English boy comedian; and Harry Tighe's college skit, "Taking Things Easy."

Ismed is a sensational pianist. His interpretation of the most intricate compositions of the famous masters captured the audience, and his playing of the sextette from Lucia, with his left hand was nothing short of wonderful. Ismed in action reminds one of a typewriter pounding the keys or of a machine, but the exquisite tones which he coaxes from his piano impresses even the "low brow." He should, however, indulge his audience's demand for an encore.

Laddie Cliff, billed as "England's clever boy comedian," is indeed clever, both as an eccentric dancer and the singer of droll songs. His impersonations of a monocled English fop is very good and very funny. Despite the popular belief to the contrary the English do have a sense of humor; that is if Laddie is to be taken as an example.

Harry Tighe's college sketch, "Taking Things Easy," has many flashes of real comedy, but it could be vastly improved by a little pruning and polishing. Tighe himself is a natural comedian, of the spontaneous type.

The other acts on the bill, set down in the order of merit are: Alberta Moore and Myrtle Young, in songs and dances; Carl Ryal and Dora Early, comedy singers; Hill and Syviani, trick bicyclists; and Will Kemp's acrobatic oddities.

ATLANTA ALUMNI CHAPTER TO DINE

Regular Monthly Dinner to Be Held in Mahogany Room of Ansley

The regular monthly dinner of the Atlanta alumni chapter of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity will be held Wednesday night in the mahogany dining room of the Ansley hotel at 7:30 o'clock.

After the banquet the regular meeting will be held and a report will be heard from the two delegates who attended the joint conference of the southern and eastern divisions of the fraternity recently held in Washington. There were a great many in attendance at this conference.

Speaker Champ Clark acted as toastmaster, and with him on the list were members of congress, and other officials high in the service of Uncle Sam. At the dinner Wednesday night all this and much more will be told, the recent legislation enacted at the conference will be disclosed, and every Delta in the city should make it a point to be on hand. The time has been changed from 8:30 to 7:30, so as to enable more to attend. A good crowd is expected, and another regular get-together will be had.

COW EATING JONQUILS IS ARRESTED BY COPS

Midnight Marauder Haled to Station Stable by Mounted Men on Citizen's Complaint

The strange spectacle of two embarrassed policemen ambulating a horseback in the wake of a placid bossy wino moped and chewed her cud alternately, greeted late pedestrians on Decatur street Monday night.

For five miles the cops had been driving a horse just because of a wrathful citizen on Farrington street—which is some distance off Capitol avenue—had telephoned headquarters and asked for relief from the Jersey cow that was eating the jonquils out of his front lawn.

Officers Cochran and Gannt answered the call, roped in the cow and brought her back to the station pound. Today Betsy is eating her head off in the station stables and some unidentified citizen is "being charged a dollar a day" "cow board" until he claims her.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON VOICE PRODUCTION

WEALTH OF HAIR

Parisian Sage Makes Thin Lifeless Hair Soft and Abundant.

Beautiful hair, fluffy, lustrous, abundant and free from dandruff, is one of woman's greatest charms—it's her main delight—yet so many of the fair sex who would be most attractive but for their streaked, thin and lifeless hair, go on thinking there is no remedy. Quickly put aside such thoughts. Beautiful hair is largely a matter of a little care and attention. Parisian Sage rubbed into the scalp and applied to the hair with a sponge or cloth will work wonders. Do it daily for a week, then occasionally, and you will be surprised and delighted with the result—not only will the hair become abundant, soft, fluffy, radiant with life, but really doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage supplies hair and scalp needs. It surely removes dandruff with one application and cleanses the hair of all dirt and excessive oil. It is not sticky or greasy, is delicately perfumed, and contains nothing to injure the hair or scalp. Jacobs Pharmacy and all drug and toilet counters sell it in fifty-cent bottles. Look for the trade-mark—"The Girl with the Auburn Hair."

Delighted users pronounce Parisian Sage the best, most pleasant and invigorating hair tonic made.—(Adv.)

A Happy Bald Headed Man

Well-Known Politician Nearly Bald Now Has Heavy Growth of Hair.

Tells How He Did It.

A western politician, well known on account of his baldness and ready wit, surprised his friends by appearing with a heavy growth of hair; many of his old friends did not know him and others thought he had a wig. On being asked how he did it, he made the following statement: "I attribute the remarkable growth of my hair to the use of the following simple recipe which any lady or gentleman can mix at home: To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. It not only promotes the growth of the hair but removes dandruff, scalp humors and prevents streaked, faded, gray hair and makes the hair soft and glossy. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost and mixed at home."—(Advt.)

WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo.—"I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advertises itself."—Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For sale everywhere.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it? Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

"Had any more dreams, Peter?"
"Tell us about those tracks again."
"Better find out what's the matter with your eyes, Peter. They see too much!"

This was what Peter heard every time he met any of his friends. They all laughed at him, every one of them, and all because he had tried to tell them that there was a stranger deeper than the Green Forest who made tracks ever and ever so much bigger than those of Bowser the Hound. No one ever had heard of such a thing in the Green Forest, and no one believed Peter's first story. He thought he was joking, but when he grew indignant and they saw how very earnest he was they thought that he had been frightened and had imagined that the tracks were a great deal bigger than they really were. Of course they were made by Bowser the Hound, and timid Peter had just thought that they were bigger and different. That's what everybody thought.

So whenever they saw him they teased him until it got so that Peter wouldn't stick his head out of the dear old Briar Patch until after dark. You see, he didn't like being teased and laughed at. No one does. Of course not. But it was great fun for the others. Once Jimmy Skunk came to the edge of the Old Briar Patch and pretended to be terribly excited.

"I've found some tracks, great big ones, down on the Green Meadows," he cried. "Come with me, Peter, and see if they are like the ones that you saw in the Green Forest."

Right away Peter was quite as excited as Jimmy seemed to be, and he hurried to follow Jimmy down across the Green Meadows. Well, the tracks were not green then at all, but all covered with snow. Peter was so excited he didn't know what to do. It seemed to him that Jimmy Skunk, who, you know, never hurried slower than ever.

"What did I tell you, Jimmy Skunk? Now, perhaps, you'll believe me the next time I tell you a thing," he whispered as they drew near the place where Jimmy said the tracks were.

When they got there, sure enough there were tracks, great big tracks, just as Jimmy had said. But, oh, such a disappointment! They were the tracks of Farmer Brown's boy. Then Bowser knew that Jimmy Skunk had played a joke on him, for, of course Jimmy had known all the time those tracks they were.

"Ho, ho, ho! Ha, ha, ha!" laughed Jimmy Skunk. "There are your tracks of the Green Forest, Peter Rabbit. Look at them, so that next time they will know them. Ho, ho, ha, ha!"

But Peter was too disappointed and too angry to say a word. He just turned his back on Jimmy Skunk and started back for the Old Briar Patch as fast as he could go. He knew that provoking.

"I don't care," Peter would say over and over to himself, when he was alone. "I did see those tracks and there is a stranger in the Green Forest, and he has got terrible great claws. I wouldn't go up there again for anything! No, sir, I wouldn't go up there again if I was starving and there was no food anywhere, but there, I—I do wish that somebody would believe me."

THE EVENING STORY

(Copyright, 1914, by W. Werner.)

Since 9 o'clock Joan Hall had been at work. With incalculable swiftness and efficiency she had turned from dictation pad to typewriter, from letter file to minute book. Her fingers flew, keeping time with her busy brain. At half-past 12 her employer (a stout, stern, elderly man with but one idea—to head off his competitors in the money-making game) remembered that he had had no lunch, and slamming on his hat and dragging on his overcoat rushed out to find the nearest restaurant. While he was gone Joan opened a pint bottle of milk and a box of Graham crackers and proceeded to feast. Between bites and swallows she gazed out at the narrow, uninteresting street fanned on two continents for the money, business and power. It represented, and wondered whether she could hold out until release came at 5 o'clock.

It was not her first busy day. All day days were busy days. But she was not so well prepared as usual for this particular day. There was no chance for her to shirk. To Mr. Winslow she was a mere machine, a kind of type-writer attachment, which the moment it balked or showed signs of wear must be replaced. He paid for expert service and demanded it.

Now it was 5 o'clock and Joan was free. Almost dazed, she looked up her typewriter and rose. From the peg behind she took down her hat and coat and put them on. Mr. Winslow stood at his own desk with some papers in one hand and his watch in the other. He was divided in thought between the two. Joan said good-night to him, but he did not hear her. That was not strange, for he never spoke the word more to her than was necessary.

Joan went out of the office to the elevator. Throughout the great building the lights had been glowing all day. There was still a dim glow, for they did not glow for the deep, narrow little street was as dim as a gully.

When Joan stepped into the elevator her eyes met those of a man who was coming down from the floor above. He was about thirty years old and very handsome. Joan knew him because he frequently came into Mr. Winslow's office and always spoke to her. It had never occurred to Joan that he came in on her account, but she did wonder why he continued to come when he must see that his interruptions were annoying to Mr. Winslow. She knew nothing about him except what she had seen, yet she did not like him. However, she bowed and sat down and tried to forget that he was there.

He did not speak to her, but she felt that he was looking at her. When the ground floor was reached he followed her out. They almost kept step across the tessellated floor. Two or three men who had just entered the building passed them, dripping moisture. Then he spoke.

"Nasty weather we're having," he said.

"Oh, is it raining?" Joan cried out. Outside the door, in the shelter of the great porch, she paused. Obviously it was raining in that dreary, gray, persistent way characteristic of city rain. Joan had no umbrella. She had not even a newspaper to hold over her head. The man beside her had no umbrella, but he was not troubled on that account.

A taxicab on the lookout for fares purred slowly by and he held up his hand. As the cab paused he touched Joan's arm, looked smilingly down into her face. "Come," he urged, "let's get out of the weather."

Joan had taken one step forward. "Oh, no," she objected. "I can't let you send me home like this."

He laughed deep down in his throat. "Why home?" he murmured. "Why not Sherry's and the Metropolitan afterward? Aren't you just dying for a little gayety after pounding old Winslow's typewriter all day?"

Joan stood still. She did not look at him. She looked at the waiting car, at the circumspect profile of the unobtrusive cabman, Sherry's. The Metropolitan! After a whole year in New York she had seen no more than the outside of either. The two names held magic for her. To see lights, to people, to hear music, eat delicious food, to be in the midst of all that wonderful life she knew existed, to be a part of it even, to let her youth take its proper wings and dash about, it did not appear so wicked! Everything that could allure and charm seemed to have her by one hand, and everything that was old, tired, lonely, hard, seemed to have her by the other. Both pulled, and between them Joan's soul felt a rending torture. She was so tired, so alone. In the boarding house and without there was nobody to talk to, to be young and gay with. She thought of two more years like the last and her heart sickened. She felt herself begin to yield.

"Come, my dear," the man said.

She turned and looked at him. He was looking at her with a half-amused, waiting, scornful smile under his little black mustache. Something in that smile scared her as she had never been scared in all her life before. She felt as if a great spider had suddenly crawled over her hand or a snake hissed in her very face. "No, no!" she gasped.

She eluded him and ran out into the rain. Her car was waiting in the street. She made for it wildly, as if running from awful danger, regardless of taxis spinning recklessly along the slippery pavement. The motorman saw her and stopped and she pulled herself aboard, sank down and covered her face with her hands.

An hour later she stood in her room quiet and safe. She took off her hat and coat and hung them up to dry. Then she went up to her dress and looked into it. Thank God, she could yet meet her own eyes without disgust and aversion.

She stood a long time looking at herself in the glass. She was beautiful and she had the first of the many experiences beauty brings to a woman.

THE ENEMY

(Copyright, 1914, by W. Werner.)

All at once she felt protected.

How much better it was for her to be inconspicuous and plain! It was evident that if she remained in the city she must attract other men.

She was a country girl. She had been born and brought up in a village of thirty houses all told—a village where everybody related either by real ties of blood or those of ties, scarcely less strong, which love and respect and understanding weave. She had never known any save kind and harmless people until she came to the city. She had not been afraid of the city. It had amused her when her elders cried, "Beware!" Its dazzle and throb allured her and she reached out her hands for it just as children reach out for a glittering toy. She knew how to use a typewriter and she had had a correspondence course in stenography. She had wit and facility of memory and both subjects came easily to her mind. She had needed only a few weeks in a business school for finishing off, and then she was ready for a situation. Mr. Winslow had hired her. If he had treated her like a machine at least he had not disturbed her belief in her own ability to take care of herself.

Six months ago, she realized, she would not have hesitated an instant between right and wrong. Today she had hesitated. Why? She knew why. The fact thrust its awful face close to hers and gazed sardonically. She could not mistake it. She had hesitated to choose the right, not only because the wrong was more attractive, but because she was lonely.

She had not minded being lonely at first, there was so much that was untried, interesting and novel and to catch her glance, her hearing and her young pulses; the shop windows, as full of dazzling detail as a Gobelin tapestry; the streets, thronged with all kinds of humanity; the boarding house, with its string of transients. Then, too, work was new and money earning new. Her pay envelope offered a constantly recurring sensation of independence, ability, importance. The money it held was hers to use as she pleased. At home there never had been much money.

Cheap and Easily Made, But Ends a Cough Quickly
How to Make the Very Best Cough Remedy at Home. Fully Guaranteed.

This pint of cough syrup is easily made at home and saves you about $2.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It relieves obstinate coughs—even whooping cough—quickly, and is especially good for bronchial asthma, spasmodic croup and hoarseness.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Tastes good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in quinal and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this mixture, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and sugar syrup remedy. This plan often been imitated, but the old successful combination has never been equaled. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.

A quantity of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Ind.

This Simple Recipe Quickly Banishes Hairs

(Beauty Topics)
Here is a simple and inexpensive recipe or formula which is used with excellent results by many beauty specialists for removing hairy growths on the face, neck or arms: Mix a stiff paste with a little detolene and water and spread on hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. Care should be exercised to get the detolene in an original package, otherwise it may not be pure.

Enough to eat, fire, warm clothing, yes, but none of the little things, the trimmings on life which girls love.

This pay envelope of hers could not do everything, it is true. She could starve herself and have small luxuries or she could feed well and wear her old clothes. But at least there was no careful old aunt to tell her what she should do. Now, after a year novelty was passed, there had ceased to be any illusions between her and her work, and the loneliness of this whole business of wage earning in a great city bore upon her with increasing power.

Loneliness, then, was her real enemy. The man with the red lips only waited until he considered that the enemy should have overcome her. He had evidently miscalculated; he had not waited long enough. But the time would come when he should have waited quite long enough. And then—

She could no longer bear the sight of her own face in the glass. She was turning away when she saw a letter lying upon the corner of the bureau. She took it up. The writing was her uncle's.

The letter itself was brief, but very tender. It said her aunt was ill. Wouldn't she come home for a little while? They wanted to see her very much, their little girl.

Joan stood looking at the letter. She began to smile. All at once she felt protected, sheltered, loved. The real blessedness of home revealed itself to her. Her enemy could not find her there.

The dinner bell was ringing at the foot of the stairs. She slipped the letter into her bosom and went down to tell her landlady that she was going home on the morrow.

MRS. MARTHA SHEPPARD DIES AFTER OPERATION

Mrs. Martha A. Sheppard, who for more than fifty years has been a resident of Atlanta, died Tuesday morning at 9:18 o'clock at the Grady hospital, where she was taken for an operation. She failed to rally afterwards. She was seventy-six years old.

She came to Atlanta just after the war, and had lived here ever since. She was a devout member of the First Presbyterian church, and the members and many other friends will regret her death.

She is survived by her brother, Dr. John B. Daniel, and by her nephew, Lucien, Knight, compiler of state records.

The funeral will be held some time Wednesday afternoon, but definite arrangements have not been completed.

Edward H. Butler Dead

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) BUFFALO, N. Y., March 10.—Edward H. Butler, aged sixty-three years, died Sunday night following an operation. He was a prominent publisher, being the owner of the Evening and Sunday News.

He was a member of the Capital City club, of Atlanta.

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

HOROSCOPE FOR
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 11, 1914.

On land this day abide:
Trust not Neptune as a guide.

According to astrology, this is not a fortunate day, for Neptune, Saturn and Mercury are all in evil aspect.

Neptune's influence is not so strong as that of the other two planets, but the rule is an unlucky one for shipping interests and for the many commercial activities over which Neptune is supposed to have a certain sway.

While this government prevails fraud and deception are said to be easier than at other times. The planetary "disturbances" tend toward confusion and perplexity, and may cause an inordinate desire for luxuries. Attractions to peculiar persons and a liking for fantastic colors or intense sounds and odors may develop.

Under this astral sway susceptibility to emotions of various sorts is increased, and for this reason astrologers warn men and women to be guarded in their manner toward strangers.

The adverse aspect of Mercury causes petty worries and needless anxieties, if the seers interpret right. It creates uncertainty, indecision and sensitiveness, which may lead to hasty speech and serious misunderstandings. Persons born between August 24 and September 22 are supposed to be especially susceptible to the influences of Mercury.

There is a prophecy that after 1915 an increased interest in occult subjects will bring about scientific investigations, which will establish facts now generally doubted. The Panama-Pacific exposition will supply a forum for the world thoughts that are startling, astrologers predict.

Trouble in Japan is foreshadowed. The mikado's stars indicate a severe crisis, for the sun, forming an opposition to Saturn and in semi-square to Mercury, emphasizes the influences presaged by the threatening aspect of Mars.

Suicides are indicated strongly by the planets, which influence the United States. Many men and women of high station will kill themselves.

Persons whose birthday it is have menacing stars in their horoscopes. They should guard against illness and domestic troubles.

Children born on this day may be inclined to be untruthful and self-indulgent. Boys should be strictly disciplined for business life. These subjects

Manager Phillips arrived from his home in Pennsylvania today and completed arrangements for the departure of the players for the spring training camp at Wichita Falls, Tex., tomorrow.

Fifth Regiment Begins Hand Ball Tournament

Wednesday night marked the beginning of the handball tournament at the Fifth regiment armory which is to be played between the members of the regiment for prizes which are to be awarded the best singles and doubles.

When the entry list was closed on Monday night it showed a total of 26, all of whom are experienced players, and the battle for supremacy will be a close one.

The games are scheduled to begin promptly at 8 o'clock and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Following is a list of entries:

Henry Collier Joins Pro. Ranks

Henry Collier, formerly star pitcher for the Yellowjackets, has decided to join professional ranks, and has signed a contract with Manager Clark Griffith, of the Washington Nationals. Collier leaves Tuesday night to join the Nationals' training camp at Charlottesville. Collier will make the second entry with Griffith's team, since Harry Holland is now working out in the Charlottesville camp. Incidentally, he will be the second Techite pitcher in the big league, provided he manages to stick. Erskine Mayer is already a member of Charlie Doolin's Daisies.

Collier entered the University of Georgia last fall, and it was thought at the time that he would remain in Athens until he became eligible for a place on the Red and Black team, under the one-year residence rule. He states, however, that he has been made an offer that he can hardly afford to turn down, because of the fat stipend attached thereto, hence his decision to enter professional ranks.

Nelson Favored Over McMahan

Terry Nelson, the tough Greek lightweight, has been made a 10 to 8 favorite over Jack McMahan, of Chicago, in their ten-round bout at the Columbia theater tomorrow night. Nelson's great record around these parts has made him a choice over his opponent, but he will have his hands full besting the tough Chicagoan.

Nelson has fought such boys as Jake Abel, Frank Whitney, Jack White and Tommy Kilbane and is a tough nut for the best of them to crack.

Two other exciting fights are also on the card, making twenty rounds of boxing in all. Kid Brown, the hard-hitting Greek bantam, is billed to tackle Young Goldman over the six-round route, while

Pittsburg Feds to Train at Lynchburg

LYNCHBURG, Va., March 10.—Manager H. H. Gessler, of the Pittsburgh Federal league, after an inspection of facilities here, Monday decided to bring the Pittsburgh team here for three weeks' training. The squad, which will be composed of about thirty players, will be ordered to report here Sunday to begin work next week. The diamond formerly used by the Virginia league will be utilized. Manager Gessler declared last night that it is his belief that the Federals are stronger financially today than the American league was three years after invading the east.

Rickey's Browns Will Play Cardinals

TAMPA, Fla., March 10.—The St. Louis American league baseball club left here last night for St. Augustine, where they will play a series of games with the St. Louis Nationals before continuing their trip back home. The team, according to Manager Rickey, is in excellent shape. They won three, lost two and tied one game with the Chicago Nationals.

The Philadelphia Athletics will come here Thursday for three games with the Chicago Nationals. Third Baseman Zimmerman is still out of the game with a wrenched knee.

Kid Herman Shades Eggers

NEW ORLEANS, March 10.—Kid Herman outpointed "Knockout" Eggers, of New York, in a ten-round bout here last night, the third of a series of elimination bantamweight fights to select an opponent for Champion Johnny Coulin here early in April. By winning last night's fight, Herman is practically assured of the bout with Coulin.

Warren Leads in Rifle Club Shoot

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The eleventh week of the interclub rifle shoot finds Warren in undisputed class A, with the District of Columbia and Cleveland tied for second place. Warren was high gun for the week, making 997 out of a possible 1,000, within one point of the record. Other high scores were Birmingham and Cleveland, each with 995. In class B, King's mills holds the lead, with Stillwater, Minn., and Boston as runners up. Among class A scores was Warren, Pa., 997, vs. Birmingham, Ala., 995.

Champion Kilbane Calls Off Matches

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 10.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, last night decided to call off his matches with Johnny Dundee, of New York, at Milwaukee later in the month. He is suffering from the gripe.

Lady Golfers In Great Match

Misses Rovenscraft and Shannon Turn in Score of 91 Over Course at Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., March 10.—Clever golf by women experts yesterday attracted attention here. Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, of England, present holder of the American women's championship, with Miss Hazel Shannon, of Buffalo, as her partner, recorded a 1 up victory over Mrs. R. H. Barlow and Mrs. J. V. Hurd, both golfers of national reputation. The best ball score of the victors was a 91. Later yesterday Miss Ravenscroft and J. H. Clapp, of Chevy Chase, won a mixed foursome from Mrs. Barlow and Stuyvesant Leroy, of New York.

An interesting event yesterday was the team match in which eighteen pairs, led by H. C. Fowles, Oakmont, and C. L. Becker, Woodland, as captains, participated. Mr. Fowles' team won, 9 1-2 to 8 1-2. The leading team entertained their opponents last night at a banquet, at which Robert Hunter, Weeburn, was toastmaster.

The first round of men's singles matches in the annual spring lawn tennis tournament was played yesterday. The survivors being: R. H. Jeffery, Columbus; F. R. Stevens, Toronto; R. A. Laife, Brooklyn; A. H. Chapin, Springfield, Mass.; R. H. Fortune, St. Catharines, Canada, and H. P. Hotchkiss, New Haven. The tournament also will include women's singles, men's doubles and mixed doubles.

Levisky Beat Coffey

NEW YORK, March 10.—Batting Levisky, of Philadelphia, outpointed Jim Coffey, the "Dublin Giant" in a ten-round bout here last night.

Smith Signs Up Another Hurler

Manager Bill Smith has just made another addition to his bunch of ball tossers, who are counted on to maintain the supremacy of Atlanta on the diamond during the coming season. The latest acquisition is a hurler, Hamilton, by name. Hamilton pitched in the Carolina league during the 1912 season and was drafted by Seattle that fall. He refused to report, however, and has now obtained his release from the Seattle club.

Bill found it necessary to take on an additional twirler, owing to the fact that he has heard nothing from Harry Hedgepeth, drafted from the Virginia league last fall. Hedgepeth has never even replied to any of the letters written him, and it is not known whether he intends to quit playing baseball, or whether he is holding up on the contract offered him. Also, Ed Sinder, the semi-pro, from Augusta, who wrote Smith that he had more stuff than any left-hander the local pilot had ever seen, has failed to put in an appearance. "Don't know what is wrong," remarked Billy. "Guess he must have suffered a chilly sensation in his pedals at the last moment."

With several exhibition games to be played within the next few weeks, Manager Smith wants a goodly number of twirlers on hand, in order to give all of his prospects full opportunity to appear at the bat.

The new man, Hamilton, won twelve games and lost six in the Carolina league, so he will be given full opportunity to show just what he carries in his repertoire.

Jennings Notified

GULFPORT, Miss., March 10.—Manager Hugh Jennings, of the Detroit baseball club, returned home from New York last night he found awaiting him the signed contract of Ty Cobb. Navin had given Cobb the right to make it for one or two seasons and the champion batsman made it a two-year contract.

"The report that Tris Speaker's new contract calls for the highest salary paid in baseball is not true," said President Navin. "Cobb's contract calls for the biggest salary in the game." The figures were not made public, however.

Cobb wrote he would join the Detroit team at New Orleans Sunday.

Feds to Delay Injunction Suit

INDIANAPOLIS, March 10.—After a conference with Silas H. Strawn, attorney for the Chicago Federal league club, over the long distance telephone, E. E. Gates, attorney for the Federal league, announced last night that it would be several days before the injunction suit to prevent William Killifer from playing with the Philadelphia Nationals would be filed. The suit will be brought at Grand Rapids, Mich., as it is understood Killifer resides in the jurisdiction of that court.

Mr. Gates said a temporary restraining order to prevent Killifer's playing with the Philadelphia Nationals would be asked and that the Federal league would give bond to reimburse Killifer if the suit for a permanent injunction fails.

Simpson Won Coast Golf Championship

GULFPORT, Miss., March 10.—George O. Simpson, Mobile Country club, won the Mississippi Coast Open Golf championship by a score of 158 for 36 holes as announced here Monday. Harry Turpie was second with 161; Freddie Moore third with 163; Jack Datz, 165, and George Turpie 167. Hugh Jennings, manager of the Detroit Americans, at a dinner last night presented cups won by golfers during the past week.

Pitcher Lively Reports

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 10.—Pitcher Jack Lively, last year with Sacramento, Cal., claimed by various clubs in and out of the Southern league, reported to the Montgomery club last night ready for spring practice.

Ty Cobb Signs With Detroit At Top Salary

President Navin, of Tigers, Gets Document Covering Period of Two Years—Says Cobb's Salary Exceeds That Paid to Tris Speaker—Cobb Will Report Sunday

DETROIT, Mich., March 10.—When President Frank J. Navin, of the Detroit baseball club, returned home from New York last night he found awaiting him the signed contract of Ty Cobb. Navin had given Cobb the right to make it for one or two seasons and the champion batsman made it a two-year contract.

"The report that Tris Speaker's new contract calls for the highest salary paid in baseball is not true," said President Navin. "Cobb's contract calls for the biggest salary in the game." The figures were not made public, however.

Cobb wrote he would join the Detroit team at New Orleans Sunday.

Molesworth Buys Pitcher Robertson

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 10.—"Dick" Robertson, premier pitcher of the South Atlantic league last season, who was sold to Cincinnati near the close of the season, only to be turned back this spring to the local club, was sold yesterday to Birmingham. The price paid for him by Birmingham was not announced.

Three Teams to Play Off Tie

The first game of the series to determine the winner of the local prep basketball pennant will be played Thursday afternoon on the Atlanta Athletic club's court. Boys' High and Marist college being the two teams that will play.

These two teams have met twice and each has won a game. Boys' High won from Marist on the Marist court and Marist won from Boys' High on the Atlanta Athletic court, where the game Thursday will be staged.

At the drawing to decide which two teams would play first, Donald Fraser drew the blank and will play the winner of the above game, the date depending upon which team wins the struggle.

Just who will win the contest is hard to dope out, as dope on prep affairs is nearly always spilled by the two contesting teams and since Boys' High and Marist have each won one out of two games played.

However, it will be a great contest and some great basketball is sure to be uncorked when the two teams meet. The time is 2:45 and 25 cents will be charged as an admission price.

Mrs. Beware! Lookouts Begin Secret Practice

Manager McCormick Bars the Gates Against Spectators and Starts Drilling His Charges on Signal Work. With Exception of Hurlers, Men Are in Shape

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 10.—Secret practice was begun at Andrews field by the Lookouts yesterday afternoon. With all the regulars, or intended regulars, upon the ground with the exception of Flick and the entire aggregation in fair physical condition, Manager McCormick decided to take up the work of signal drilling and inside ball somewhat earlier than usual. The public is excluded from the park all of this week, and McCormick is devoting much of the time during both the morning and afternoon sessions to nothing but the practice of signals, both on the offense and defense, and the discussion of the line of strategy to be followed during the regular campaign.

In spite of the fact that the weather locally has been unusually raw for this season of the year with the numerous snow flurries, the Lookouts are already in good condition physically. The hurlers, of course, are just beginning their heater work, but the rank and file are already coveting around at considerable speed. The encouraging physical condition is undoubtedly due to a great extent to the predominance of young blood. With the exception of Shline, Street and McCormick, there is hardly a veteran player on the squad, that is, from a point of years, and these three players are just entering upon their prime.

The real problem of the training season locally is that of getting enough hurlers into shape by the time the first exhibition game arrives. This would have been an easy task, perhaps, had Somers remained in the fold and had Howell reported March 2, but with these two absent, Somers for good and Howell until the middle of May, the task of securing a dependable staff and not overworking the members is one which will require both study and attention.

K. O. Eggers to Box Kid Young

letic club, which proposes to stage a series of first-class boxing matches here within the next few months, has signed up two good featherweights to battle over a ten-round route, in Kid Young, the local milt artist, and Knockout Eggers, of New York. This knockout will be pulled off Thursday night at the Orpheum theater, and practically all work has been completed toward putting the house in good shape for the bout.

These two boys are to come in at 124 pounds at 6 o'clock on the evening of the match. Eggers claims that he can fight under 120 pounds, and insists strongly that Young make the limit set. Accordingly both have posted forfeits guaranteeing that they will make the limit. Before either boy is allowed to enter the ring, he will be rigidly examined by Dr. Louis Rouglin, and in case either is promised unfit for any match, he will not be allowed to enter the ring.

Young, who has been boxing a bit locally in the past few weeks, is training daily for the battle. He is tackling the toughest boy that he has met yet in Eggers, and he will have to be at his best if he wins the contest. Eggers has fought recently at Chattanooga, and New Orleans, and will come here from the latter city. He is expected to reach here in tiptop form, and may be expected to put up a lively battle all the way.

Aggies Hang Up Rifle Record

WASHINGTON, March 10.—A new college record, regarded virtually as a world's record for rifle shooting in its class, was made by the Michigan Agricultural college with a score of 994 out of a possible 1,000, in the ninth week's match for the United States intercollegiate championship. The previous record was 988. The Michigan boys continue to lead class A, Washington State college held class B, and the University of Illinois is at the top in class C. Summaries include: Class A—Michigan Aggies, 994 vs. Harvard, 977; West Virginia, 961 vs. North Carolina, 938. Class B—Washington State, 981 vs. Dartmouth, 952; Wisconsin, 947 vs. Oklahoma Aggies, 946.

THE SPORTLIGHT BY GRANTLAND RICE

AFTER INTERVIEWING THE TOURISTS. They told us what happened in Tokio town And the ways of the young Japanese; They spied about Pekin with more than a touch Of chopsticks and laundries and fleas;

They told us of Melbourne and Sydney, et al. Of visiting ranches and such; And eke of the Cairo-cooked roundup of food That put Commy's stomach in Dutch.

They told us of Venice and Naples and Rome. And the fanfare arranged with the pope; Of wonderful paintings they lamp on the way, Attached to the usual dope.

They told us of London, of gulping down tea. Of royalty there without stint; They told us what happened in Paris as well— But I'm not goanna put it in print.

Deep sea divers will start to work along New York harbor early Monday morning groping for a number of bags of gold that were pushed into the Atlantic in the hectic scramble which greeted the Unsigned Five. The search for Spanish galleons sunk up and down foreign shores will be strictly Bush in comparison for the treasure hunt now on.

THE MAIN VISION.

J. Callahan was discoursing upon the wonderful visions which he managed to lamp in his 25,000 mile jaunt around the globe. He discoursed in eloquent terms of the mosques in Cairo, the carpets of Bagdad, the spirea bush of Australia and the works of Messrs. Angelo and Raphael in Rome and Naples. Likewise of the Mona Lisa in Paris and the abiding grandeur of Westminster Abbey in London.

"We saw the most wonderful stuff ever compiled by nature and man," he remarked in earnest tones. "Taking everything together," we queried, "did you see anything that looked as good to you as Ed Walsh back in form with the bases full and the score tied and two out?"

"H—l," remarked the eminent Chicago leader, giving vent to an old one, "there ain't no such animal. I'm speaking of the earth now, not of heaven."

Mr. Callahan confessed that not even Paris, with all its boasted lamping power, had anything that looked as good as the Big Red exuding the old-time pink, ready to choke off another impending rally.

THE J. THORPE STATUS.

McGraw believes that he was able to discover a fine ball player under alien skies. It isn't often that a manager can leave America and dig up a noted athlete on the other side of the universe, but the Giant believes he has turned the trick. The name is J. Thorpe, who left here as only a fair average player, but who returns with a thick chaplet of laurel plastered upon his brow. Thorpe, they say, has taken up baseball with greater keenness than he ever put into any other sport, and, with his natural ability to back his frenzied enthusiasm up, the tip is furnished, that he will be one of the main stars of the 1914 parade.

THE TRIP'S HIGH SPOT.

We put the query to a number of athletes as to the one spot they esteemed above all others. The chorus was unanimous—i. e., "Paris." Not only, as they explained, because it was Paris, but, in addition thereto, because it rained out two games in that city with no chance to call for a return double-header date.

The two hopes of the tour were Ivy Wingo and Lee Magee. These athletes at one time were 12,000 miles from St. Louis, yet they started bravely back home even before they knew the Feds would be at docks with counter overtures. They started back toward the Cardinals when they might have stuck in Odessa.

"What does I. W. W. stand for?" bespeaks a partly innocent bystander. Quite simple—I Won't Work. We'd join the order, too, if we could get away with it.

Nick Altrock states that he was furnished $100,000 by Griff to beat the Feds to Germany Schaefer, but Germany finally agreed to sign for $14.75.

This must be the same $100,000 that Griff has been trying to pay for Ty Cobb.

We hold no brief, as the saying used to go for the Feds or any other league. But when Ban Johnson refers to them as "these pirates," in just what official status does that leave the American league, which drew its start in exactly the same way, only more so by several kidnapping degrees?

Ban is an eminent league president and an important figure in baseball, but there are times when he is a greater comedian than anything else. Greater plus 7-2-3.

Ban says the Feds have lifted only ten American leaguers. Yet the American league lifted something like 80 or 90 from the N. L. in the old time raid. If seizing 10 athletes comprises a piratical venture, where does the lifting of 90 leave one? Answer—into another major league.

Not forgetting that J. Thorpe has arrived just in time to purchase us that $5 spring fedora as a result of being firmly convinced that Cornell would beat Carlisle last fall.

Featherweight Boxer Killed by a Stranger

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 10.—Johnny Albanese, 22, a former featherweight boxer, was shot and killed here early Sunday by a stranger, who escaped. According to William Caras, a Greek, held by the police as a witness, the stranger demanded money from Albanese and in an argument that ensued, drew a revolver and shot the former boxer, who died later in a hospital. Albanese's last fight was with Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, in this city, October 24, 1912.

Ireland having beaten Scotland at rugby we expect a Frenchman to win the kraut-eating contest.

St. Johns Is Admitted To South Atlantic Assn.

(By Associated Press.) LEXINGTON, Va., March 10.—St. Johns college, University of Maryland, has been admitted to the South Atlantic Intercollegiate association, becoming the ninth member of the association, according to the announcement of the mail vote made today by Dr. Pollard, of Washington and Lee university, president of the organization. St. Johns will compete at the next annual meet in Baltimore, May 1 and 2.

The Feds at least are not superstitious. If Frank Chance had known they were to open on the 13th he would have jumped to them.

Danny Murphy Joins the Feds

Veteran Captain of the Athletics Resents Move to Send Him to Baltimore—Joins Brooklyn

NORWICH, Conn., March 10.—Danny Murphy, captain of the Philadelphia Athletics last year, said at his home here last night that he had signed today at Brooklyn, N. Y., a three years' contract with the Brooklyn Federal league team. He declined to state the amount of the salary he is to receive. Murphy is one of the real veterans of Connie Mack's Athletics, having seen more than ten years' service under the silent leader. He, together with Harry Davis, Chief Bender and Eddie Plank, are the only men who were members of the pennant-winning team of 1905 who have stuck to the present. Murphy resented Mack's actions in sending him to Baltimore in the international league, and cast his lot with the Feds rather than report to Manager Jack Dunn.

JOKE ON JACK.

BY FULLERTON.

Jack Lelivelt, of the Naps, started south to join the team. He was having an argument with the railroad agent, who promised certain things. "I don't want to doubt your word," said Lelivelt, "but I'll never trust any one again." "Why this cynicism, Jack?" asked a friend. "It's on account of a game of ball," he said. "We advertised a game between Pittsburgh and Chicago one fall after the season and most of the players left town, so we had to fill in Lelivelt was carded to pitch and he was gone, so the Cubs wanted me to pitch left-handed and pose as Lelivelt. They promised to go easy and not hit hard." Jack looked sad a moment. "Well," he was asked. "The first nine of them got base hits," he said, sadly. "Then I yelled for mercy and they made two home runs in succession. No, I'll never trust any one again."

Amateurs Begin Billiard Match

Championship Tournament Opens in New York—Offenheimer Defeats Moyer

NEW YORK, March 10.—The first match for the amateur 18.2 ball line billiard championship of America, played here last night, brought together Dr. Walter E. Offenheimer, of Philadelphia, and Joseph Mayer, of New York, present holder of the title. Offenheimer won last night's game by 400 to 283. There are twenty-one games to be contested and these will be played out two each afternoon and night contests. Poggendorf, of Philadelphia, will be J. Ferdinand Poggendorf, of the Lieberkranz society, the international champion, and Eugene L. Milburn, of Memphis, Tenn. Edward W. Gardner, of the Arion society, of New York, former national champion, and Joseph Mayer will meet in the night game.

Over 400 Complete Songs with Words and Music

Over 500 Pages

Greatly Reduced Size. Full Size, 7 x 9 1/2 inches.

Now Being Presented Almost FREE by the Atlanta Journal

HEART SONGS is not a mere collection of music and words! It is a book compiled directly by more than 20,000 people, who, in sending their favorite songs, told why they sent them.

From the lone cabin on the trackless prairie—from the snowy wastes of Alaska—from the mining camp amidst the pines of the lofty Sierras—from the coral strand of an island in the far Pacific, so remote that the ships come only once a year (if they do not forget)—from the garrets of London and Paris, with only the stars above—from the sandy deserts of the Orient—came these outpourings of the human heart—from the men and women who loved them—and the singing of which oftentimes saved their sanity.

Every song in this wonderful book has had some sacred memory—some touching experience—some sweet and hallowed association—connected with it in the hearts of thousands. It is their song of joy—of sorrow—of thanksgiving—of love—of bereavement—of home-coming—of re-union—of all the tender sentiments that lift the human heart in worship to its Maker. It is for this—by inspiration—that this unique volume is entitled "HEART SONGS."

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

When five thousand dollar per foot retail frontage entirely surrounds a twelve hundred dollar per foot lot, and is already within 90 feet, it won't be long before the $1,200 lot will catch up in value with its higher priced neighbor.

SOUTH BROAD for years has been impossible as a retail shopping street, but the produce men have taken their onions and cabbage to other fields; the only hindrance to Broad street's prosperity is cleaned away; the difference is already apparent. J. M. High company have an entrance and display on Broad; Kress has an entrance of show windows and entrances on Broad. The new Linen Store at the corner of Alabama and all between other Whitehall merchants have only to open a Broad street entrance to make Broad street a retail shopping street. The department stores are ALREADY ON BROAD STREET. Just watch them all open entrances now to catch both street's trade.

Certainly two blocks on Whitehall cannot serve all the future growth of Atlanta. What more natural place for expansion of the shopping district can one imagine than Broad street.

We believe the 24x70-foot lot on South Broad street near Mitchell, at only $30,000, on easy terms, is the best purchase we have run across in months.

Just suppose you could pick up a lot like this on Whitehall, same location at this price. The same factors that made Whitehall's values are absolutely certain to exist on Broad street and that before very long.

An investment like this is the "salt of the earth." Buy and pack away for your children like most of the Whitehall owners have.

$30,000 on terms.

PLAN FOR RESCUE OF MRS. PANKHURST FAILS

Suffrage Leader Is Hurried Away to London After Arrest in Glasgow

(By Associated Press.)
GLASGOW, Scotland, March 10.—Bands of determined militant suffragettes waited at all the railway stations in Glasgow today in readiness to fight for the rescue of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst. The militant leader, however, who was arrested last night while speaking in St. Andrews hall, previously was removed from the station house to a suburb railway station in order to avoid the attentions of her supporters.

Mrs. Pankhurst was carried from the cell to a waiting automobile on a stretcher. The motor car then dashed off at high speed to a station on the main line of the railroad where she was carried on board the express train for London.

Many of the policemen who assisted in Mrs. Pankhurst's arrest last night suffered severe scratches from barbed wire which had been stretched across the platform from which she was speaking.

CEARA, BRAZIL, UNDER FEDERAL MARTIAL LAW

Troops on Guard at Principal Points Owing to Outbreak of Strike

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 10.—Martial law was proclaimed today throughout the state of Ceara. Federal troops have been placed on guard at the principal commercial and private houses in Fortaleza, the state capital, owing to the outbreak of a strike. Martial law was proclaimed in this city several days ago.

The commander of the troops at Fortaleza telegraphed to the minister of war today that trade was at a standstill and the strikers were parading the streets threatening the populace and breaking into private dwellings.

The local authorities of the state of Ceara are powerless to enforce order and the federal commander reports that a force of rebels is camped at about sixteen miles from Fortaleza.

There are two survivors of the Merrimack, the Confederate ship—Benjamin Simms Herring and Elijah W. Flake, of Tallahassee, Fla., and Polkton, N. C., respectively.

DOING NOTHING KEEPS A WOMAN AWFULLY BUSY.—By Goldberg.

WENT TO MANY CITIES FOR IMMORAL PURPOSES

Mrs. Stoe Said to Have Brought Mrs. Bond to Many Hotels

Mrs. Annie Stoe was placed on trial before Judge W. T. Newman in the United States court Tuesday morning on the charge of violating the Mann white slavery act, the same offense for which her husband was tried and convicted a few weeks since.

As chief witness against her appeared Mrs. Annie Bond, who alleged in a series of sensational statements similar to those that were instrumental in convicting Stoe, that Mrs. Stoe had taken her into Alabama for immoral purposes involving a commercial gain.

An indictment containing four counts was presented by District Attorney Hooper Alexander. Defending Mrs. Stoe were Attorneys Haralson and Kelly. The indictment names two separate occasions, in the fall of 1912 and in the winter of 1913, on which Mrs. Stoe and Mrs. Bond are said to have gone to Birmingham and other Alabama cities for immoral purposes.

Mrs. Bond, the first witness for the state, told how she first met Mrs. Stoe; how she was drugged by the woman's husband in a local rooming house and how both suggested to her the Birmingham trip. In September, 1912, Mrs. Bond testified she went to Birmingham and stayed a week with Stoe in a hotel there. She testified that she then met Mrs. Stoe and that the two of them went to "most every hotel in Birmingham."

She declared that they also went to Tuscaloosa, Gadsden, Anniston, Montgomery and other towns, continuing the same methods at the hotels at which they stayed, returning to Atlanta after about two months of this life.

Mrs. Bond testified that she and Mrs. Stoe—this time without Stoe—made the same trip in February, 1913. The trip was made at Mrs. Stoe's request, testified the witness, and lasted a week. They went to Birmingham and Tuscaloosa—at the latter city being ejected from a hotel, testified Mrs. Bond. She said she separated from Mrs. Stoe on her return to Atlanta.

The Stoe case probably will last the remainder of the week. Scores of witnesses are being introduced and much documentary evidence, including the registry books of the hotels at which Mrs. Stoe and Mrs. Bond are said to have stayed.

PHYSICIAN'S CERTIFICATE DID NOT SAVE MRS. FAIN

Woman Whose Home Was Raided Sunday Compelled to Dress and Go to Court

J. V. Fain and his wife, whose home at 328 Simpson street was raided last Sunday by Officers Dorset and Roberts, who found 12 cases of whisky stored in a secret room, were both bound over to the state courts and also fined by the recorder Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Fain, who had not been placed under arrest, made a futile effort to escape trial by taking to her bed and securing an affidavit from a physician who stated that she was too ill to come to court.

Recorder Nash R. Broyles did not like the looks of the affidavit so he sent City Physician Martin to the Fain home to see the woman. Dr. Martin ordered her to dress and attend the court, and when she entered Judge Broyles quickly remarked to the woman, who is young and handsome, "Well, you are the finest looking sick woman I ever saw."

A few minutes later he fined her $100 or thirty days in the stockade and bound her over to the criminal court under a $500 bond.

Fain was fined $200 and sentenced to thirty days in the stockade in addition to being bound over under a $500 bond.

PROBE OF COAL MINERS' STRIKE NEAR ITS CLOSE

Congress Committee Expects to Finish Work in Michigan and Colorado Today

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 10.—Members of the house subcommittee, who have been investigating the copper miners' strike in Michigan and the coal miners' strike in Colorado, expected to return to Washington tonight. It may be several weeks before their report can be completed and presented to the house.

The congressmen investigating the Michigan strike expected to conclude their inquiry today by hearing the testimony of Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, regarding his deportation from Hancock, Mich., last December. Members of the Michigan militia who were on strike duty in Michigan last summer appeared before the committee yesterday and answered charges of brutality made by the strikers.

The committeemen who investigated the Colorado strike arrived in Chicago yesterday and probably will return to Washington on the train with members of the Michigan committee.
